

Broad Control Is Planned for Rail System, Senators Told

Broker Would Give More Power to Other Security Holders

INQUIRY PRESSED

Committee Approves Relaxation on Sale of Helium Gas

Washington.—(U)—The senate railway finance investigating committee pressed its inquiry into the recent purchase of control of the Van Sweringen rail empire by a group of three brokers.

One of these, Frank R. Kolbe, told the committee his firm intended to "broaden the basis of control" of the huge transportation system in cooperation with government agencies in order to "give much greater power to the other security holders."

Officials interested in budget-balancing saw new difficulties today in the possibility of increased refunds of taxes collected under the unconstitutional agricultural adjustment act.

They said a bill urged by Representative Cullen (D-N. Y.) might add millions more than anticipated to the government's expenses for paying back illegal AAA levies against processors.

June 30 Deadline

The deadline for taxpayers to make claims is June 30. Treasury experts have estimated that less than 10 per cent of the billion dollars collected under the form law would be returned.

Cullen asked a hearing, however, for a bill to extend the time for filing claims until Dec. 31.

Despite some opposition from economy advocates, the senate sent to President Roosevelt a bill to provide $25,000,000 aid farmers in reforesting their lands.

Appointment of Major George L. Berry, the president's coordinator for industrial cooperation, as successor to the late Senator Nathan L. Bachman (D-Tenn.) brought another vote for the Roosevelt court bill into the closely-divided senate.

Friends said Bachman, before his death, had expressed opposition to the measure.

A senate committee approved today relaxation of restrictions on the sale and export of non-inflammable helium gas, use of which in the airship Hindenburg, some experts said, possibly would have prevented the disastrous explosion of that craft.

The senate military affairs committee acted to bring about liberalization of restrictions while various government agencies, including the department of commerce, the senate commerce committee and the bureau of mines, dispatched investigators to study the wreckage of the big ship at Lakehurst, N. J.

Purpose of Probe

Chairman Copeland (D-N. Y.) of the senate commerce committee said today a major purpose in sending a committee investigator to the scene of the Hindenburg disaster was to determine if "sabotage" had played any part in the accident.

Harold J. Hartney, the committee investigator, accompanied by Monroe Johnson, assistant secretary of commerce, to Lakehurst, N. J., scene of the tragedy. Secretary Roper announced that soon after Johnson's arrival personnel of a commerce department board of inquiry would be announced.

The board, Roper said, would make an exhaustive inquiry.

Copeland explained he had no evidence indicating sabotage, but wished to make certain there was none.

"There are two things that I want to know," he told reporters.

"I want to know if there was any sabotage connected with the disaster, and I want to know the type of material used in the interior construction of the dirigible."

He explained that if the interior construction were found to be inflammable, he would use the findings as a basis for recommending ship construction legislation. The senate commerce committee is working on such legislation now.

"After we have found out all the facts in those two connections," Copeland added, "we probably will have a little hearing and utilize the evidence gathered to promote safer construction of vessels at sea."

Eduard and Wallis Pose for Pictures On Chateau Ground

Monts, France.—(U)—Edward of Windsor and Wallis Warfield Simpson, hand-in-hand and beaming, posed for photographers today beneath a chestnut tree on the lawn of the Chateau de Candé.

Inside, invitations were being prepared for the select circle that will witness the former British monarch's marriage to Mrs. Simpson on a still secret wedding day.

"We are very happy. We always are very happy," the duke said, smiling. The woman for whose love he renounced a throne nodded her emphatical approval.

The chestnut tree, in full bloom on the lush, spacious grounds of the chateau, provided an almost theatrical background.

The bride-to-be's trousseau, including a wedding gown in "Wallis blue," is virtually complete. The shade is one both she and Windsor prefer.

On the day she becomes her royal highness, the duchess of Windsor, Mrs. Simpson will wear a long afternoon dress, part of an ensemble with a jacket to match in soft silk.

Governor's Court Bill Is Defeated In House, 43 to 42

Assembly Adopts Memorial To Congress Backing Roosevelt Plan

Madison.—(U)—The assembly definitely defeated today Governor LaFollette's bill to permit supreme and circuit court judges in Wisconsin to retire on half pay when they reach 70, but adopted a memorial to congress asking approval of President Roosevelt's judicial reorganization plan.

Administration forces, seeking to reconsider the vote by which the governor's retirement proposal was defeated two weeks ago, lost 43 to 42.

Immediately afterward, the house approved and sent to the senate, the joint resolution of Assemblyman Mary O. Kryszak (D), Milwaukee, to support the Roosevelt court plan. The vote on the resolution was 49 to 35.

The roll call on the LaFollette bill followed an appeal made by the governor in a recent address to the Dane County Lawyers' Guild for enactment of the measure, which, he contended, was not a pension plan, but a proposal to improve the administration of justice.

Party Lines Broken

As before, party lines were scrambled on the final decision. Many Progressives, who originally voted to kill the measure, also voted against reconsideration. The principal argument advanced by the proponents was that a substitute bill introduced to meet the objection that the bill is purely a pension measure.

Republican and Democratic assemblymen said there was no valid reason for reconsideration and charged that lawyers from Milwaukee, whom they did not name, had been lobbying for the bill in the hope they could be elected to the circuit court.

"I believe the main idea behind this proposition," said Assemblyman Mark Catlin (R), Appleton, "is to maintain a 100 per cent record for the administration. You cannot charge me with insincerity because I voted for the bill."

It was the first major administration proposal defeated this session.

Delay Action on Trading Stamps

Senate Favors Restriction But Won't Vote Until Next Week

Madison.—(U)—The senate voiced its approval today of plans to restrict issuance of trading stamps and to reduce membership in the University of Wisconsin board of regents, but delayed action until next week.

A vote of 18 to 8 the senators rejected a motion to kill a last session bill prohibiting giving of trading stamps on nationally-advertised merchandise for which manufacturers and dealers have agreed on a price.

Senator Michael Kresky (P), Green Bay, who said the bill would hide real danger to independent merchants, asked postponement of the final action. On a roll call the senate divided 13 to 13. Lieutenant Governor Henry Gunderson casting the deciding vote for delay.

This action followed a long argument during which Senator E. M. Rowlands (P), Cambria, declared the bill would benefit small merchants who are forced to sell trademarked merchandise at stipulated prices. Senator Joseph Clancy (D), Racine, called trading stamps a "lure" to housewives.

Joe Lewis Will Train Near Kenosha for Bout

Kenosha.—(U)—Harold B. Woodley, secretary of the Kenosha Chamber of Commerce, announced today Joe Louis, Negro heavyweight boxer, would train for his title match with Champion James J. Braddock which is scheduled in Chicago for June 22.

Woodley said an agreement between city officials and Louis' representatives was drawn last night and that Julian Back, Louis' manager, telephoned him from Chicago today the contract would be delivered here this afternoon.

Cashman Charges Dammann Forced Changes in Bill

Madison.—(U)—Senator John Cashman (P), Denmark, author of a strict automobile drivers' license bill issued a statement today charging that Secretary of State Theodore Dammann worked to obtain changes in the bill in the assembly with the result that it was "changed from a safety measure to a death measure."

Dammann declined to comment.

The drivers' license bill passed the senate in the form desired by Cashman, but the assembly amended the plan to take out a provision for regular examinations of all drivers and for a record of suspensions, revocations and convictions on each license. The senate received the measure in its amended form today.

Cashman's statement said after the bill went to the assembly "it was pigpinned in Earl Hall's committee for over a month."

Hall (P), Tunnel City, is chairman of the assembly highway committee.

Eleven Rail Cars Wrecked On C. B. and W. 1,500 Feet of Rail Torn Up In Smashup Near Black Creek

INVESTIGATION MADE

Passenger Service Is Held Up Pending Clearing of Line

Eleven cars of the Green Bay and Western Railway line were derailed at 9 o'clock this morning about a mile east of Black Creek. No one was injured and 13 cars of the mixed train which included passenger, freight and baggage cars were left upright on the track after the accident.

Railway officials are investigating but up to 2 o'clock this afternoon had not ascertained the cause, although they said it might have been a defect in the train or in the track. The train was going west.

A wrecker obtained from the Chicago and North Western Railway yards at Green Bay was scheduled to leave Green Bay at 2 o'clock this afternoon to remove the wrecked cars. One passenger train is being held at Seymour until the track is cleared.

Travel Slowly

The cars derailed were in the center of the train and company officials said that the train was traveling at a slow speed because it had just passed a part of the track on which repairs are being made. G. Paape, Green Bay, was the engineer with J. J. Seymour, Green Bay, the conductor.

About 1,500 feet of track was uprooted in the accident, company officials said. Cars derailed include seven coal cars, an empty gondola, a tank car, empty box car, lumber box car and an empty flat car.

Of the cars derailed, only the tank car remained upright on the right-of-way. Six of the coal cars were wedged together and the lumber car was driven about five feet into the ground with the gondola on top of the lumber car.

Youth Fined for Drunken Driving

Municipal Judge Orders Driver's License Revoked for One Year

Al Litscher, 20, 922 W. Elsie street, pleaded guilty of drunken driving when he was arraigned before Judge Thomas H. Ryan in municipal court here this morning.

He was fined $50 and costs with an alternative of 90 days in the county detention camp, and his driver's license was ordered revoked for one year.

Litscher was arrested by Appleton police on S. Outagamie street at 1 o'clock Thursday afternoon. Police said the youth was driving in an erratic manner.

'Russianism' Charged: Divorce Bill Killed

Madison.—(U)—Charges that "Russian" marriage standards would invade American homes preceded an assembly vote today killing a proposed bill by Assemblyman Charles Beggs (P), Rice Lake, to set up a divorce procedure outside the courts.

Assemblyman James T. Cavanaugh (D), Antigo, led the fight against the bill which would have permitted couples having no children under 15 years of age to obtain legal separations by filing notices with their county clerk that they had agreed to abandon marital ties.

Beggs suggested that divorce decrees in such instances should become effective automatically one year after filing of the notice.

"This is a Russian bill," Cavanaugh declared, criticizing the case with which couples in that country can get divorces.

Mary O. Kryszak (D), Milwaukee, only woman member of the house, and Assemblyman Edward Kiefer (P), Milwaukee, spoke in favor of the measure. Mrs. Kryszak said opposition was encouraged by attorneys because it would reduce their business.

Horicon Firm Opposes C. I. O. in Ballot

Horicon, Wis.—(U)—The 70 employees of the Netz Glove and Mittens company rejected the Committee for Industrial Organization in a vote last night.

Following the balloting, Mayor W. H. Markham ordered former Sheriff Al Benson of Milwaukee, who had come here to organize a C.I.O. union, to "get out of town and stay out."

Horicon people and Netz employees, the mayor said, want nothing to do with the C.I.O.

The vote on the question of organizing a Netz union was 44 against, 16 for, 6 blank ballots. Four other employees refused to participate in the voting.

The Netz company, formerly operating in Milwaukee, moved to Horicon the first of the year.

Probes Started in Hindenburg Disaster at Lakehurst; 30 are Listed as Dead and Missing

Send Highway 41 Out of City on Douglas Street

State Commission Selects Compromise Routing After Long Delay

Hig.—(U)—41 will be routed in Appleton on present Highway 10 from the intersection west of the county asylum and then north on an extension of Douglas street to a point a mile north of Wisconsin avenue and then east to the present terminus with Highway 47. Thomas Davlin, chairman of the Wisconsin Highway commission announced this morning.

Additional land for right-of-way will be required, and a crew of surveyors has started work to lay out the highway.

Location of Highway 41 from the intersection of the new road with Highway 10 west of the asylum has been before the commission for months. Originally it was intended to bring Highway 41 over Highway 10 into the city and then go north or northeast to the point where 41 and 47 intersect. Upon the urging of the federal bureau of roads, however, the commission was much in favor of changing its original plan in favor of sending the new highway straight north from the intersection with Highway 10 through the county asylum farm and then east to Highway 47.

This move was opposed by the county and city authorities, by the county because it meant cutting up the county farm and by the city because it was not in accordance with the original agreement to bring Highway 41 into the northwest corner of the city.

A few weeks ago the commission considered routing the new highway over Highway 47 from its intersection at Richmond street and Wisconsin avenue, but that was abandoned because of opposition from the federal roads bureau. The final decision to route the highway over the extension of Douglas street is a compromise.

Refugees From Spain Reach France Safely

Bordeaux, France.—(U)—Two shiploads of Spanish refugees from the Biscaya, 2,806 in all, reached safety in France today with an escort of British men-of-war.

Women with babies in their arms, old men unable to fight and children chattering with excitement came to the French ports of La Rochelle and Pauillac aboard two Spanish ships, away from the screaming shells and rattling machine guns of the insurgent army pressing on the capital of their Basque homeland.

Behind them they left almost all they possessed, but they had the French government's promise of refuge in homes, hospitals and other havens in France.

Federal Agents Nab Bank Holdup Suspect

Indianapolis.—(U)—Agents of the federal bureau of investigation, department of justice, battled and captured a man today who Bliss Morton, acting chief of the local bureau, said is wanted in connection with a $25,000 bank holdup in Grand Rapids, Mich.

Morton said the man gave his name as Ray C. Stevenson but gave no home address.

The Hall street branch of the National Bank of Grand Rapids was held up by three men armed with sawed off shotguns. They escaped in a car driven by a fourth man.

LIVED TO TELL OF ZEP'S CRASH

Two unidentified passengers on the zeppelin Hindenburg, who escaped fiery death by leaping from the blazing craft before it hit the ground at Lakehurst, N. J., in a tragic ending to its first Atlantic crossing of the year, are shown as rescue workers rushed to their aid. Their burned and bleeding faces give mute evidence of the terror they experienced. Experts Give Opinions on Cause of Zeppelin Tragedy

By the Associated Press

What caused the crash of the Hindenburg? Dr. Eckener, in Austria, outlined three possible causes.

"1. When the ship is lowered, some hydrogen usually is released. This free hydrogen in the air might have been sufficiently concentrated to be ignited by lightning or by a spark. It would not necessarily have to be a great flash of lightning; perhaps it wasn't even seen by observers.

"2. When landing, the water ballast is released from the tanks. A stream of water, connecting with the earth, might have served as an electrical conductor to bring a spark up from the ground. It is possible that an electric charge, so to speak, stabbed the Hindenburg from the earth.

"3. Someone aboard may have made a fire, a spark possibly from a cigarette lighter. I regard this also as unlikely, for the conduct of the passengers and crew is watched carefully."

(Smoking on the Hindenburg was allowed only in a spark-proof compartment.)

Captain Ernst Lehmann, its commander: "I don't know what happened. She just went up."

Gill Robb Wilson, New Jersey state aviation director: "Something strange caused that tragedy."

Captain Frank McCarthy, once commander of the Shenandoah, which crashed 12 years ago: "It is more reasonable to assume that a flame from one of the Diesel engines ignited the hydrogen."

James C. Mars, American pioneer in lighter-than-air craft: "Static electricity. The hydrogen gas bag would have gathered static in the electrical storm, and one of its landing ropes touching the wet ground could complete the circuit."

F. W. Von Meister, vice president of the American Zeppelin Transport company: "The rain may have caused a spark of static electricity when the landing ropes were dropped. Or there may have been a spark from one of the engines."

Sir Hubert Wilkins, the explorer who had flown on the Hindenburg: "Any airship using hydrogen is in grave danger when gas is being released during a thunderstorm."

Germans Will Send Investigating Committee To United States

HINT AT SABOTAGE

Dr. Eckener Urges Helium to Float Dirigibles Now Being Built

Berlin.—(U)—A shocked and tearing German nation summoned an official commission today for a quick trip of investigation overseas to fix the cause of the tragic Hindenburg disaster, yet rallied amid the deepening mourning to follow "the same path" of aerial trail making.

The Nazi air ministry called an early afternoon conference of officials of the Zeppelin construction company, the Zeppelin Airlines, and the German Institute of Aeronautical Research to decide the personnel of the commission that will speed by plane and ocean liner to Lakehurst.

The German people, from Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler and Dr. Hugo Eckener down to the poorest workman in the stunned and tearful knots that gathered in the streets, were plunged into profound and amazed sorrow.

Dr. Eckener, tired and haggard, arrived by airplane from Vienna and went immediately to the air ministry.

The veteran Zeppelin builder indicated the Graf Zeppelin, now a scheduled trans-Atlantic air liner to South America, may not fly again until she can be filled with non-inflammable helium.

When a reporter reminded him he had said in Vienna that helium should be used exclusively, Dr. Eckener interrupted, "helium—nothing but helium."

Considers Course

But when he was asked, "does this mean future trips of the Graf must wait until helium can be obtained?" Dr. Eckener answered: "Yes, but I cannot say anything about our future schedule until I have talked with the air ministry and our company officials."

The Gestapo, German secret police, said they were not investigating the Hindenburg's crew pending a report from the inquiry board.

Some at Frankfurt-on-Main, the burned Zeppelin's home city, stood beneath half-staffed flags to wonder of "sabotage."

"What else could it be?" they asked.

But there was no official expression of such suspicion.

Eckener Weeps

Rushing to Berlin from Austria, Dr. Eckener, designer of the Hindenburg, cried real tears but urged the use of helium, which Germany lacks, to float the Reich's lighter-than-air craft anew.

He spoke, too, of veiled and anonymous threats of trouble if the Hindenburg landed in America this year, but said they were the work of "cranks."

Dr. Eckener will be on the commission of inquiry which is expected to hasten by plane to Cherbourg, thence on the Europa to the United States.

"Mind, I do not say sabotage was responsible but that it must be considered as a possibility, especially in the case of 'cranks.'"

Returned to Alabama After Fatal Stabbing

Bessemer, Mich.—(U)—Thomas Wommack, 26, was taken back to Fairfield, Ala., yesterday to face charges growing out of the fatal stabbing of Clifford King, 24, Aug. 27, 1935. The stabbing followed an argument over a girl at a dance held in a Fairfield resident's home. Wommack was permitted to see his bride, a Marshfield, Wis. girl, before leaving for Alabama.

Roosevelt Sends His Sympathy to Hitler and People

Galveston, Texas.—(U)—Shocked by the Hindenburg disaster, President Roosevelt today requested he be kept informed of developments in the explosion that wrecked the German dirigible at Lakehurst, N. J.

Immediately upon learning of the tragedy last night, the president, from his vacation yacht Potomac off Port Aransas, dictated messages of sympathy to the German people and the families of the victims.

To Adolf Hitler, German chancellor, at Berlin, he sent a radio-gram saying:

"I have just learned of the disaster of the airship Hindenburg and offer you and the German people my deepest sympathy for the tragic loss of life which resulted from this unexpected and unhappy event."

In a separate public statement, he said:

"I am distressed to hear of the tragedy of the Hindenburg, and extend my deep sympathy to the families of the passengers, officers and crew who lost their lives."

U. S. and German Governments Try to Determine Cause

68 SURVIVE CRASH

Scores Witness 200-Foot Plunge of Gigantic Airship

Lakehurst, N. J.—(U)—The flaming destruction of the once-seemingly impregnable dirigible Hindenburg brought swift action today by the American and German governments to determine the cause of the disaster.

Thirty persons were known dead or missing.

Of the 98 passengers and members of the crew aboard when the greatest of all airships exploded, burst into flames and crashed to earth last night—just as it was lowering to the mooring mast, and only 200 feet above the ground—68 persons survived. One of those killed was a spectator, burned to death in the falling, fiery debris.

The rules of the luxurious liner of the skies lay crumpled on the grassy field where the airship landed—a junk heap of black metal, a mass of ghastly, grisly framework.

Luther Takes Part

On the lips of everyone was the question—what caused the crash, what was the matter? 20 times had the Hindenburg crossed the north Atlantic safely.

At Washington officials and Dr. Hans Luther, the German ambassador, opened inquiries. Three possible causes were suggested, relating to the highly-inflammable hydrogen used in the German zeppelins, which were outlined by the ship's designer and pilot on numerous voyages, Dr. Hugo Eckener.

Commander Charles E. Rosen-dahl, commandant at the naval station, said the fire originated at or near the stern of the ship about 5:25 p. m. (C. S. T.).

In his report to the navy department, the commandant, a veteran in the world's largest air force, said: "About four minutes after the ropes had been dropped a fire appeared in the after part of the ship and worked progressively forward. The ship settled to the ground tall first and was practically completely ablaze for her entire length by the time the ground was reached."

Manifest Destroyed

The identification of dead was difficult. The ship's manifest was destroyed in the holocaust. Zeppelin officials were frequently in communication with German authorities, checking last minute changes in the passenger lists. Reservations had been made for 39 persons, but company officials said only 36 were aboard, and 61 members of the crew.

Insurance authorities in London said the ship was insured for $2,500,000, with $2,000,000 held by Lloyd's underwriters and the rest by German interests.

Scores of spectators witnessed the sudden, shocking tragedy. One instant, they waved greetings up to passengers standing in the windows of the observation compartment. Then, in a flash, a cannonading explosion jarred the huge craft lashed out, and the Hindenburg plummeted clumsily to death.

In the span of seconds before flames enveloped the silvery fabric of the world's largest dirigible, some of the passengers and crew jumped, crawled or were hurled clear of the falling ship.

Captain Ernst Lehmann, a Zeppelin commander in the world war, and commander of the ship on previous voyages, stumbled from the wreck, gravely injured.

So was Captain Max Pruss, veteran airman making his first voyage as "Lehmann's" successor. In command Lehmann made the trip in an advisory capacity.

What happened to the airship that had made so many safe crossings to this and other countries remained a mystery.

Carl Weiskand, skipper of the S. S. Deutschland, who rushed to Paul Kimball hospital at Lakeview to see Captain Lehmann, quoted him as saying:

"I don't know what happened. She just went up."

Something Strange

"Something strange caused that tragedy," said Gill Robb Wilson state aviation director, announcing immediate federal and state investigations. There was an explosion, he said, in No. 2 gas cell stern.

"In all my 21 years of flying experience I have seen crackups, explosions, flaming airplanes," he said, "but nothing measures up to the explosion of the Hindenburg."

Fred D. Fagg, director of the federal bureau of air commerce, arrived from New York and said an inquiry would be held today or tomorrow.

The warped wreckage remained where it fell, pending inspection by a court of inquiry. The naval recreation was closed to all spectators and curiosity seekers.

The 800-foot long, swastika-emblazoned ship, graceful despite her bulk, sailed into her American past.

Y Worker Warns Against China's Military Program

Y. M. C. A. Members Hear Talk by Secretary From Far East

A new national spirit which is slowly moulding China into a unified nation will bring peace in the far east if the Chinese do not go too far with their militaristic program, E. H. Munson, regional Y. M. C. A. secretary in South China, told Appleton Y. M. C. A. members at their annual meeting last night when he discussed "China From the Inside."

Through a rehabilitation program, the organization of a military force, an interest in Christianity and adoption of modern customs, China once more is forging ahead and assuming its place among the world powers, the speaker said.

Japan, which in recent years has assumed an oppressive policy against China is dropping this attitude because it fears the new morale in China, the possibility of a Russian-Chinese coalition and internal strife in its own country, Mr. Munson explained.

Classes Against Policy

"Five classes in Japan are against that country's present militaristic policy. The capitalists and industrial leaders favor a conservative attitude because of an increasing national debt and little gain from the acquisition of Manchuria. The laborers are against militarism because of the fear of higher taxes. The parliamentary, liberals and Christians have assumed a similar attitude although expressing little opinion at present against the militaristic policy," he said.

However, there may be serious repercussions throughout the world, he warned, if the Chinese continue their new found militaristic power and attempt to force other countries. At present, every youth in high school and college is compelled to take a 3-month military training course.

Mr. Munson explained the background of the present Chinese situation and pointed out that now the government is making a deliberate attempt to wipe out illiteracy and adopt all modern western ideas which have proved successful in other countries.

Start Rehabilitation Plan

The new birth of China got underway when the youth of the nation began going to the northwestern part of the country and then started a rehabilitation program, he said. This resulted in new means of communication and transportation so that China geographically has been unified.

Because 85 per cent of the Chinese population was engaged in agriculture under the absentee ownership program, the Russian communist movement quickly gained popular interest in the country many years ago, the speaker said. However, the government ridged the nation of communism by removing the oppression on the peasants and starting a program of rural rehabilitation, Mr. Munson said.

"The economic outlook for peasants was changed by the organization of rural cooperatives which governed the growth and sale of the main products in the country. A program of water conservation also begun with college trained leaders in charge of the work," the speaker reported.

Japanese Oppression

The militaristic movement in China was brought about by Japanese oppression and the taking of Manchuria, Mr. Munson said, and the new program subsequently adopted in China provided for compulsory military training under veteran foreign commanders, the organization of an adequate air squadron and the start of a national navy.

China did not stop at this improvement but continued to go "strictly modern." Students trained in special fields were encouraged to install a modern system of banking, to change the system of manufacturing and industry, to organize a medical campaign which included the building of hospitals and to inaugurate a national public health and sanitation system, he said.

The plan type of living which did not permit any community or national loyalty was broken up and Chinese youths were told to make their own way in life rather than remain with their parents at all times. This ultimately resulted in modern communities which now are united for one national cause, the betterment of China," Mr. Munson explained.

Compulsory Education

Compulsory education for youths was started and later a 12-year program to educate the illiterate adults was organized. This program included the teaching of the national language through schools and by radio, he explained.

During this period of readjustment, the Chinese were in confusion as regards religion and Christianity, Mr. Munson stated. The Y. M. C. A. world service program then provided for staff workers to go special missionary work among the educated classes.

Government Aid Work

However, the government, after the Y. M. C. A. movement started, aided the work by adopting Christian ideals and encouraging Chinese youths to do the same, Mr. Munson explained. Athletic programs were started. Y. M. C. A. buildings constructed and leaders trained so that the movement would become nationwide.

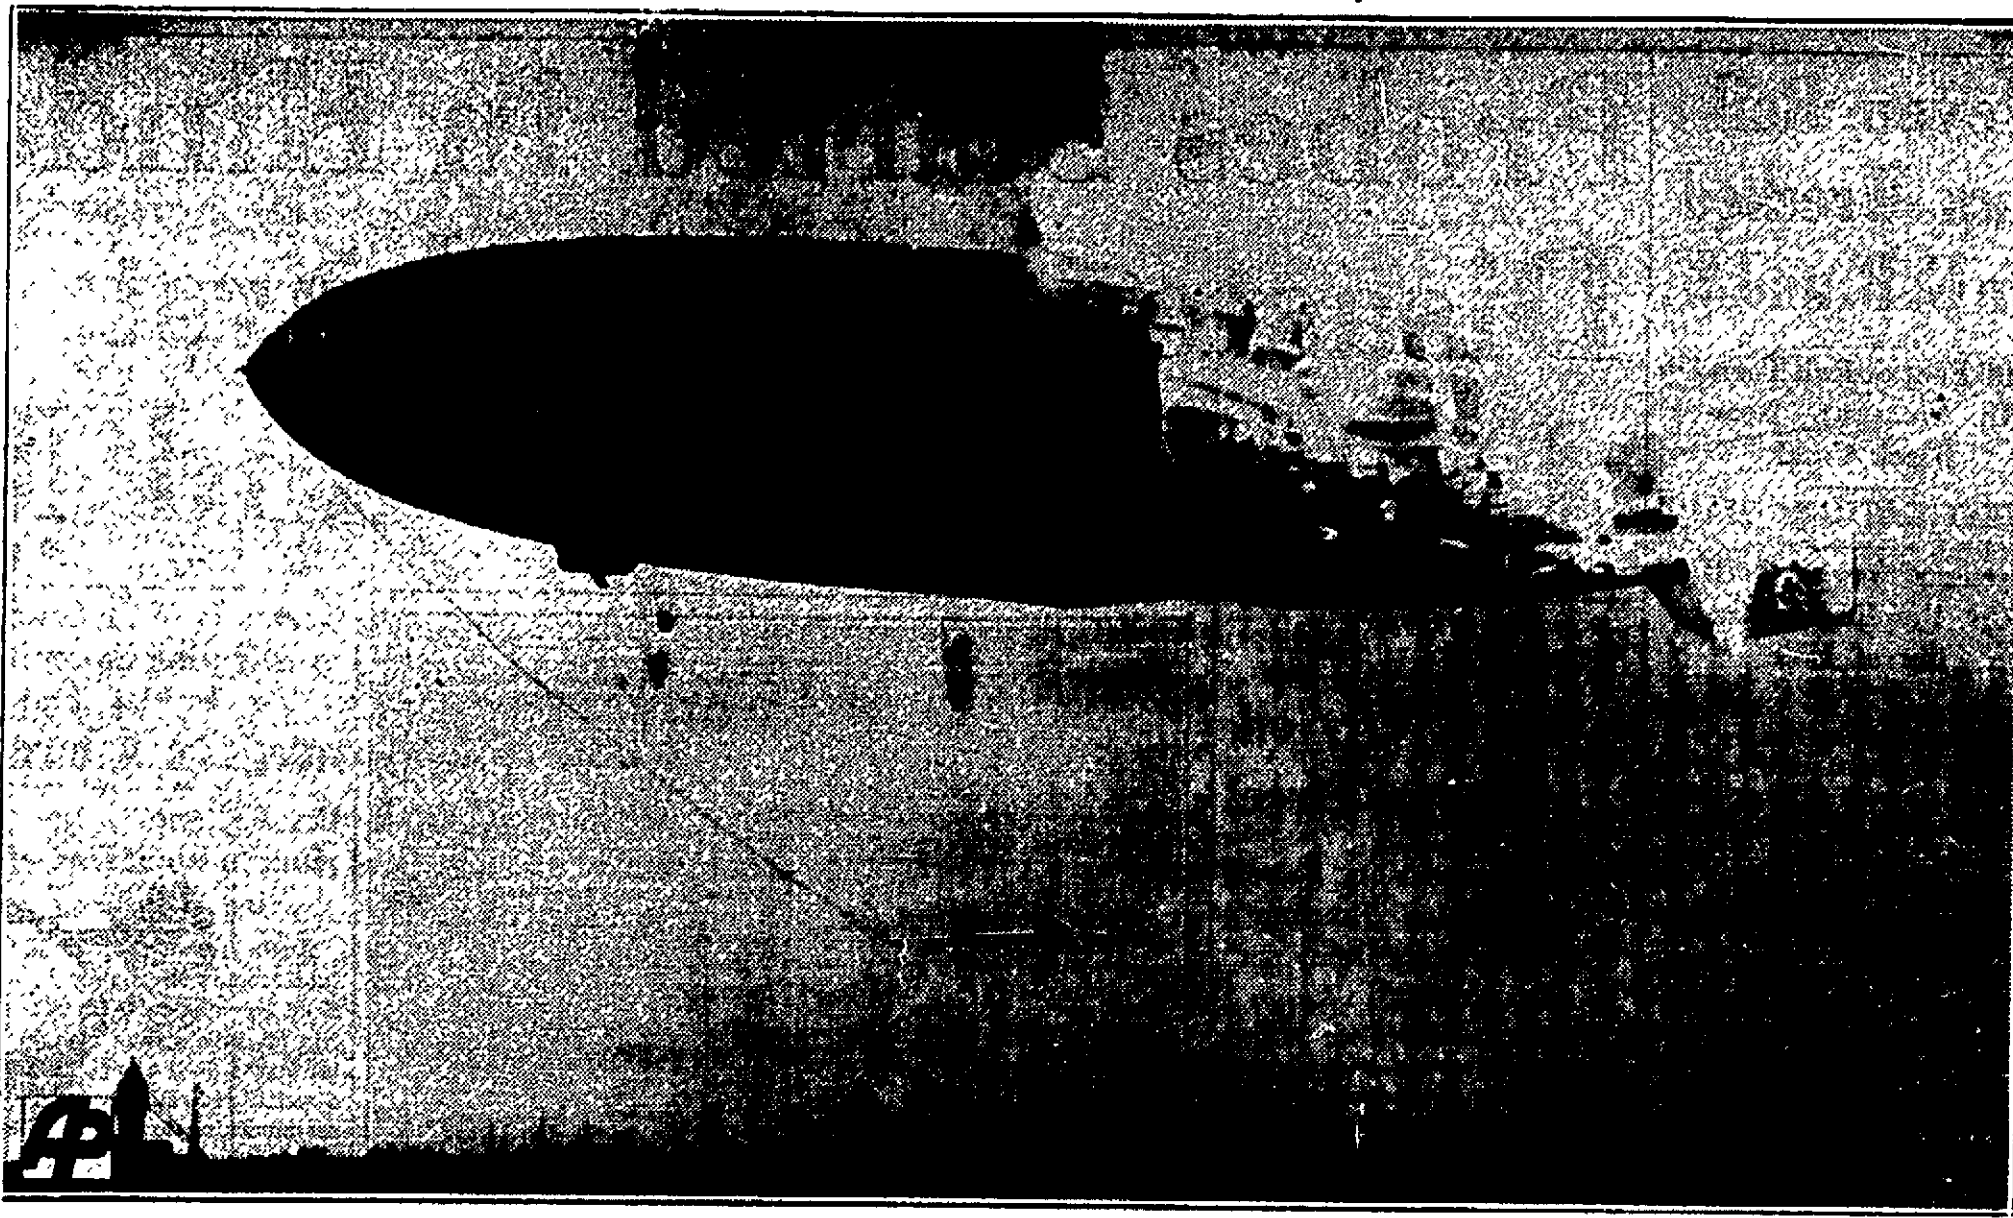

Now the danger of communism has passed and the new China is rapidly making strides toward regaining power in the world, Mr. Munson said.

About 75 members of the local Y. M. C. A. attended the meeting last night and heard reports of officers, musical entertainment and the announcement of the new directors.

Elect New Directors

Ninety-five votes were cast yesterday in the director election with G. E. Buchanan, George P. McGill, and W. C. Thiede, H. F. Lewis and E. A. Smith being elected. Of the 100 votes cast, 100 were in the only

Giant German Zeppelin Hindenburg Explodes at Lakehurst

This picture was taken by Murray Becker, Associated Press camera man, at the very instant that the great German dirigible burst into flames at Lakehurst, N. J., last night. A moment or two later the entire ship was in flames and fell to the earth, carrying with it a crew of 61 and 36 passengers. This morning it was indicated that about 65 of the passengers and crew had been rescued, all of them severely burned or otherwise injured. The explosion occurred at the very end of the Hindenburg's first trans-Atlantic crossing to America this year.

Medical Society Assails Measure

Labor, Co-op Leaders Favor Cooperative Health Insurance Plans

Madison—(7)—A spokesman for the Wisconsin Medical society argued yesterday against the Biemiller bill to legalize cooperative health insurance plans in Wisconsin while representatives of organized labor and cooperative leaders registered unanimous support of the measure before the assembly public welfare committee.

The bill, authorized by Assemblyman Andrew J. Biemiller (D), Milwaukee, would legalize medical or hospital care to cooperative associations under contract with physicians and would exempt the cooperative from state insurance laws.

George Crownhart, secretary of the medical society, opposed the measure after Gerald Hayes, president of the Milwaukee Bar association, had charged "organized medicine" with discriminating against cooperative doctors.

"These cooperatives are organized for straight marketing purposes, and not under the strict cooperative principle," Crownhart said. "You will find the germs of exploitation in this proposal, a field for experimentation on human beings."

Hayes said the bill would eradicate a situation where physicians were afraid to treat patients paying health insurance in Milwaukee and smaller centers.

Others who appeared for the bill were the Rev. Matt Buckley, Mrs. Albert Lanto, and A. N. Young, all of Superior; Fred Gastrow of the Wisconsin Federation of Labor, and Mrs. Clinton Barr of Milwaukee.

A new director and succeeds J. A. Wood.

T. E. Orbison, president, read the annual report and then moved that J. A. Wood be named an honorary member of the board of directors and given a vote of thanks for service to the Y. M. C. A. movement in Appleton. The motion was unanimously carried.

Reports read during the evening included those of the physical education committee by William Gallagher; the boy's work group by J. P. Lewis; the cafeteria report by J. R. Whitman; the treasurer's report by E. E. Sauger; the house and building report by George McGilgan; and the religious education summary by George Werner who substituted for the Rev. G. H. Blum.

Area Council Leader Speaks

Guy Aldrich, assistant secretary of the north central area council, briefly told of the work of the council and how Y. M. C. A. organizations in Minnesota, Wisconsin, Iowa, North and South Dakota are profiting from their plan to cooperate in staging activities and planning programs.

Seven members of the Olympic Hi-Y club told of club ideals and staged an induction ceremony. The induction team included James Bailey, Kay Rogers, Robert Schroeder, Anthony Koehn, Donald Fawcett and Fred Oliver with Arnold Harmon as the initiate.

F. J. Harwood, past Y. M. C. A. president, told of the history of the Y. M. C. A. in Appleton. C. C. Bailey, boy's work secretary, read a short poem telling the advantages of the Y. The poem was written by Fred Wiese. H. H. Heible, Appleton high school principal, served as toastmaster.

Musical entertainment during the evening was provided by the Three Musical Stylists from Normandine Inn who sang three selections including "Organ Grinder's Swing" and "Little Old Lady." Community singing was enjoyed by the crowd after the banquet with Don Gerlach as accompanist.

Bill Would Allow Any Individual to Change Speedometer

(Post-Crescent Madison Bureau)

Madison—Through the publication of automobile registration lists, automobile manufacturers put an unvarnished pressure on their local dealers in order to meet the sales of their competitors in the localities.

Assemblyman Albert D. Shimek (D), Algoma, told an assembly committee hearing his bill to repeal the statute requiring such publication.

According to Shimek, who has had some experience in automobile selling, manufacturers learn of the sales of the local agents of their competitors and threaten their own dealers with the revocation of their franchises unless sales are increased.

Another bill by Shimek would allow anyone to change speedometer readers on a car before offering it for sale. In that way, Shimek reasons, dealers would estimate a car according to real value instead of mileage as registered by the speedometer, which is now frequently tampered with to the detriment of the scrupulous seller and the buying public.

Workmen's Cases Scheduled Here

Hearings Will be Conducted May 21 by Industrial Commission

Five cases under the workmen's compensation act will be heard by a representative of the Wisconsin Industrial commission at the city hall Friday, May 21. The hearings will begin at 9 o'clock in the morning.

Milwaukee Retirement Fund Is Given Approval

Madison—(7)—The assembly concurred today in a bill permitting the city of Milwaukee to create a retirement and annuity fund for all city employees who are not now eligible to participate in established municipal programs.

The bill, sponsored by Senator George Hampel (D), Milwaukee, would extend to other employees benefits similar to those provided for teachers and members of the police and fire department.

A two-thirds vote of the city council will be necessary to make the new law effective. If the council approves, it is authorized to set up a supervisory board and fix the sum to be contributed by the municipality and the employees.

Employees Remain on Strike at Box Plant

A meeting of plant officials and a committee representing the strikers was held this week and another probably will be held today or Saturday.

Receive Petitions Protesting Bills

Clintonville Group Opposes Measure on Grading of Cheese

(Post-Crescent Madison Bureau)

Madison—Petitions protesting and supporting bills pending before the legislature have been received from residents of Waupaca, Clintonville and Shawano and have been filed by their legislative representatives.

John Krubsack and 17 other residents of Clintonville have sent a petition to Madison opposing a bill providing for a state cheese grading system, introduced at the behest of the state department of agriculture and markets. The bill is also opposed by Guilford Mueller and 21 other residents of Shawano county according to their petition.

Both communications were introduced by Assemblyman Paul Fuhrman of Bowler.

Assemblyman Alvin A. Handrich of Waupaca county has introduced a petition by A. B. Kreger and 53 other barbers of the county favoring the enactment of the Vaughan bill which would create a permanent fair trades practices statute, and another from Fred Zinbert and 25 other residents of the county opposing the state cheese grading measure.

Wants 100 Per. Increase in Dairy Products Duties

Washington—(7)—Representative Merlin Hull, Black River Falls, Wis., proposed yesterday an amendment to the 1930 tariff law under which existing duties on dairy products and rye and barley would be increased 100 per cent.

"These are practically the rates that were asked when the Hawley-Smoot bill was passed," said Representative Hull.

The amendment is designed to protect the home market for domestic producers and also to increase prices more closely to the cost of production, Hull said.

Included in the proposed increases are butter from 14 cents to 28 cents; cheese from 7 to 14 cents; poultry, eggs in the shell, up to 30 cents a dozen.

The barley tariff would be boosted to 50 cents a bushel and rye to 30 cents a bushel.

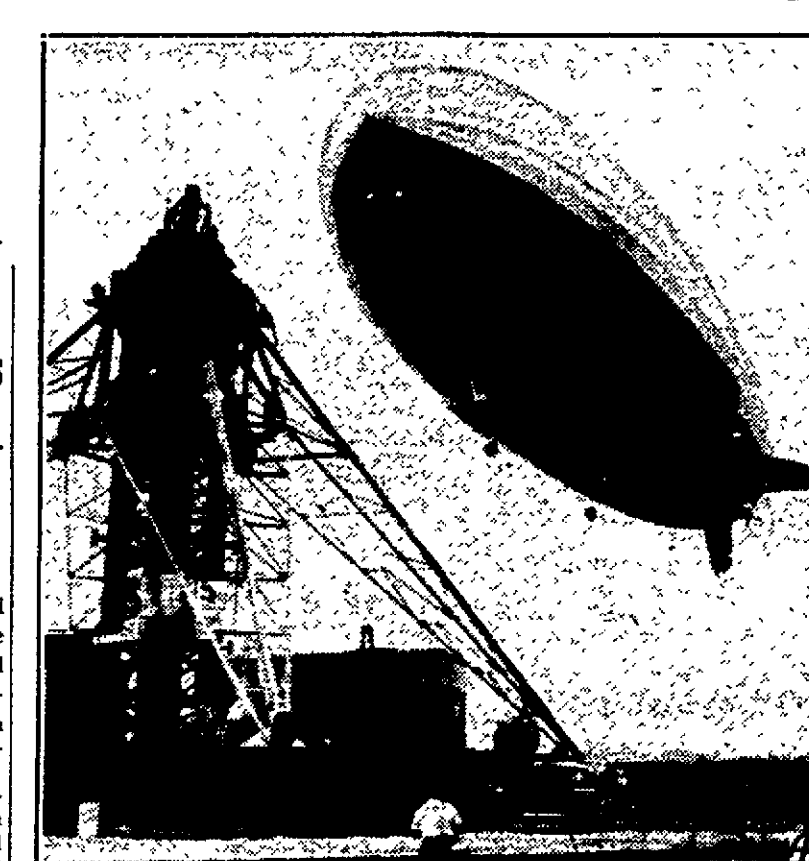

Mrs. Adolph Ochs, Widow of Publisher, Succumbs

New York—(7)—Mrs. Adolph Ochs, widow of the publisher of the New York Times, died suddenly early today at her home "Hill-lanale" in White Plains.

She suffered a heart attack a short time ago and her death came a little more than two years after her husband died at Chattanooga, Tenn., April 8, 1935.

Mrs. Ochs was the former Iphigene Miriam Wise, a daughter of the late Rev. Dr. Isaac M. Wise of Cincinnati, founder of the Hebrew Union college and the Union of American Hebrew Congregations.

She and Mr. Ochs were married February 28, 1883.

Miss Dorothy Kotkosky, Red Granite, to Head Children's Department

Miss Dorothy A. Kotkosky, Red Granite, has accepted the position of supervisor of the children's department at the Appleton Public Library to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Miss Jeanette Clausen, it was announced today by Mrs. Nancy Thomas, librarian.

A graduate of Oshkosh State Teachers college, Miss Kotkosky is at present attending the library school of the University of Wisconsin at Madison. She will graduate from the library school in June and will take up duties here June 28. From 1934 through 1936 Miss Kotkosky was first assistant in the children's department of the Oshkosh library.

Miss Clausen's resignation becomes effective Monday.

Ralph Van Handel, who has been an assistant in the department for the last year, will become a permanent member of the library staff in June, according to Mrs. Thomas.

FRAUD CASES POSTPONED

Ashtland—(7)—A municipal court justice postponed for trial May 21

two cases involving fraud charges against R. Louis Pike, WPA conservation supervisor for the seventh district. The charges involve $1,800.

"SUFFERED SIX YEARS WITH CONSTIPATION"

"For six years I suffered with constipation and I decided to try ALL-BRAN. I have been eating it once a day for about four years, and it has certainly done the work."

—Mrs. Herman Futrell, 905 W. Oak Ave., Jonesboro, Ark.

Tests prove that Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is safe and effective for correcting common constipation.

Within the body, ALL-BRAN absorbs twice its weight in water, and gently exercises and cleanses the intestines. It also furnishes vitamin B to tone the intestines, and iron for the blood.

Just eat two tablespoonsfuls daily, either as a cereal with milk or cream, or in cooked dishes. Three times daily in severe cases. You'll find this food far better than habit-forming pills and drugs. ALL-BRAN is sold by all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Largest Research Institution in World Is Dedicated at Pittsburgh

BY HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Editor
Pittsburgh—(7)—Mellon Institute Thursday dedicated its $6,000,000 new building, the world's largest research institution, its exterior a Greek temple nine stories high, its interior new laboratory magic.

In the new laboratories the scientist can get the temperature of tropics or Arctic, or the climate of the Sahara for his experiments simply by turning a thermostat.

If he wants a vacuum resembling that on the surface of the moon he can get it out of a pipe in any laboratory. Usually making a vacuum requires special apparatus with big pumps. Other pipes will give him steam, gas, hot or distilled water with the turn of a valve.

Shelves hook into the walls. Ten minutes is enough to change the shelf arrangement of an entire room. Furniture is made without bolts or screws—only a rubber mallet is needed to take apart laboratory tables or to add to them.

Main corridors are Botticino marble, doors aluminum. In the Greek exterior are 62 Ionic columns of Indiana limestone, each of 60 tons.

In this magnificent temple the scientific workers receive an average pay of $4,000 a year. These men and the 777 scientists who have preceded them since the institute was founded in 1911 have, by their discoveries, established 10 new American industries, aided about 4,000 American companies, invented about 650 novel processes and products and been granted 668 United States patents.

The dedication Thursday was in honor of Andrew W. Mellon and the late Richard B. Mellon, founders of the institute.

Since the founding they have given the institute $11,000,000, not including the building.

Hambrecht Asks Passage Of Vocational Measure

Washington—(7)—Representative Harry Sauthoff, Madison, Wis., received yesterday another plea to work for passage of the $14,000,000 vocational education bill now in congress.

George P. Hambrecht, director of the Wisconsin State Board of Vocational Education, asked Sauthoff to support the measure, declaring it was the "only feasible plan for permanently reducing the ever increasing number of our unemployed people."

Plan 160-Piece Boy Scout Band From Region 7

Valley Council Boys Expected to Register
For Music Work

Valley Council Boy Scouts who plan to attend the national jamboree at Washington, D. C., June 28-July 9, have been invited to join the 160-piece band which is being recruited from scouts in region seven.

The region consists of Illinois, Wisconsin, Indiana and Wisconsin and it is expected that about 3,600 scouts from the area will be present at the jamboree. The Racine Drum and Bugle corps of 66 pieces will lead the region contingent.

The band will be recruited up to five full troops with each having 32 boys, one senior patrol leader, two assistant scoutmasters and one scoutmaster. This will make a total of 180 members. In addition there will be one band director, three assistant directors and a band manager.

C. W. Patrick, band director at Springfield High School, Ill., for the last 14 years, will be in charge of region seven's band. Paul Hesser, scout executive of Abraham Lincoln council, Springfield, will be band manager. Members of the band will arrive in Washington June 26 for a 4-day pre-jamboree training period.

The five band troops will be located in the same section at the jamboree and all equipment including tents, cots, straw ticks and blankets will be provided. Musicians must provide their own folding music stand, clips for the music, mutes for brass instruments, lyres for the marching band and their own instruments.

Sees Need for Publication Designed for Trailerites

BY CARL W. MASON

Blom, Minn.—The time has arrived in the development of the use of the house trailer for the issuance of regular publications devoted to the activities, needs and interests of trailerites. To date I have not seen or heard of exclusive publications of the kind but could use a good periodical especially one containing accounts of experiences of other active trailer dwellers and travelers and practical hints which I might use in my own peregrinations about this vale of tears, taxes and terrifying tinkers. This magazine ought to list suitable camps for trailerites and especially boost the all-trailer camp by making special note of these new institutions that are beginning to appear. Routes, repair and supply stations, points where expert services may be obtained, facts regarding the laws and regulations of various states and communities, license and tax information, "holdup" places to avoid and all sorts of valuable helps for the trailer denizen might be included. Articles on home construction and repair of trailers would find numerous readers. The purely travel story featuring trailer life and episodes should be included, of course. Advertisements for new and used trailers would be a magnet for all interested in obtaining trailers or disposing of older ones.

Little Information
At present trailer owners and would-be's are rather at sea regarding information concerning their hobby. Meager advertising circulars, the glowing statements of their own interested local dealers, talks with a few other persons who have had a little experience with the hobo homes, occasional articles in newspapers and magazines—these are about all the sources of information available to the bulk of the public. How many persons, for example, know the names of more than a half dozen (if as many) of the more than 400 manufacturers of trailers in the country or where they are located? If anyone wishes to buy a trailer where can he turn for information regarding any appreciable number of firms and thus be able to make comparisons and so assist in a wise and satisfactory selection?

It is a fact that one or more really comprehensive publications covering the trailer field as I have indicated would do much to boom interest in this mode of living and traveling, would facilitate the movement and undoubtedly stimulate both sales and trailer traveling. They could also assist the trailer public in learning to know and to defend its rights.

They Could Help
Ordinary newspapers and magazines may have a hand in this information activity as far as their respective fields permit. They may conduct regular departments with concise and useful information, both local experiences, special writings and material sent from general syndicates handling trailer data that are bound to appear soon.

The information feature can work both ways. The syndicate idea offers a field of activity for forward-looking persons in search of new avenues of business. Would not many newspapers welcome a well-turned daily or weekly letter packet with useful information such as every present and potential trailerite is seeking and not yet finding? Such offerings, if really accurate, down to the minute and comprehensive, should prove invaluable to the hundreds of thousands of citizens who are already trailer owners or contemplating becoming such. Trailers are changing almost by the minute. Last year's model is almost as obsolete as the hoop skirt and the bustle. Only lack of information caused me to purchase a wooden construction trailer when steel bodies were available.

Apert From Firms
All these publications—whether periodicals of exclusive nature, newspaper departments or syndicated or special letters—should be entirely apart from the manufacturing companies. The public cannot rely on trade papers or office publications of the trailer makers for even with the best of intentions the latter would be likely to be colored by the self-interest or the self-esteem of the publishers anxious to give their own concern a profitable boost.

A handbook for present or prospective trailerites is another item that should be useful to the public and a source of profit to author and publishers. Chapters devoted to various types of trailers and

Proposes Farm Tenancy Measure

Boileau Follows President's Committee
Recommendations

(Post-Crescent Washington Bureau)
Washington—Choosing the recommendations of the president's special committee on farm tenancy as a model, Representative Gerald J. Boileau has introduced a farm tenancy bill.

Boileau's measure provides for establishment of a Farmers' Security Corporation with a capital stock of $500,000,000, to be subscribed by the United States Treasury.

In addition to improving the economic status of farm tenants, sharecroppers, and farm laborers, Boileau's bill would encourage and provide farm home ownership and additional credit facilities for agricultural development.

Seeking to get at the heart of the farm tenant problem, Boileau has included in his bill a provision that the Board of Directors of the Corporation be appointed by the President and certified by him as persons who have demonstrated that they will exert every effort to improve the status of those who qualify for loans and are in sympathy with the efforts of those whom the bill would benefit.

their construction, the most convenient arrangements, lists of comparative costs what to use and what not to use, hints as to handling and other fundamentals would comprise a valuable volume that would be read with interest and benefit by thousands.

Road Chief Asks Higher Pay for Highway Workers

Commerce Body Suggests New Plan for Advancing Funds

Waupaca — "No better organization can be found today than the Waupaca county highway department," said Charles Larson, county highway commissioner, when he suggested to the board of supervisors at their meeting Wednesday afternoon that "an increase in wages would do no harm." He told the board that Waupaca county is the first county to set up a straight wage system for workmen under which the men in the employ of the highway department are now graded according to the work they are able to do, receiving 30, 35, 40, and 45 cents per hour.

Only the men in the shops and the patrolmen are assured of a steady salary for regular work, but each morning there are at least 50 men waiting outside the shops before 7 o'clock to take whatever work may be handed to them when the day's work begins. Mr. Larson felt that an increase of pay would promote harmony in the department. After a brief discussion, the situation, the matter was left in the hands of the highway committee. Paul Kluth, Al Gorges, and H. P. Lea.

George F. Hadland, county conservation and fire warden, addressed the board briefly to inform the supervisors that each town chairman is automatically fire warden in his township, and anyone wishing to start a fire must get a permit from his town chairman.

Mr. Hadland announced that the state conservation department has sponsored a blanket project under WPA in counties where there were serious fires last year. An appropriation of $4,623 has been allowed for Waupaca county for employing labor, but not for transportation, that to be provided by the townships.

The northern part of Waupaca county had several serious fires last year in the townships of Matteson, Larrabee, Dupont, Wyoming, Harrison, Scandinavia and Iola.

R. H. Meinhardt, soldier's and sailor's relief officer for the county, submitted his report for the year since Jan. 15. This included hospital benefits, $1,685; CCC benefits, $100; CCC savings on soldiers' and sailors' relief, $40; burial allowance benefits, $268; rural rehabilitation benefits, $144; savings on soldiers' and sailors' relief, $140; accrued claims benefits, $1,136.85; increase in pension benefits, $16; dependents' pensions benefits, $40; benefits by American Legion Welfare, $25; savings on soldiers' and sailors' relief, $40; benefits through placid water protection, WPA, PWA and private employment, $225; a total of $2,230.54.

Advertising Proposal
John Burnham addressed the board for the Waupaca Association of Commerce, asking that since the board has set aside $300 for advertising the scenic, agricultural and recreational advantages of the county, and the association of commerce has been spending $150 to $250 a year for advertising the advantages of the county and the Chain of Lakes that the association petition the board to appropriate in the ratio of $1 from the county for each $2 spent by the organization. This appropriation was not to exceed $100.

A letter was also received from the Fish and Game Protective Association of Clintonville asking that $100 be taken from the fund to be used in the northern part of the county for similar purposes.

There was much discussion as to how the money allotted by the board for this purpose would be handled, if each should match the appropriation as suggested by the Waupaca Chamber of Commerce or if the money should have no strings tied to it, save that it be used for the purpose originally intended by the resolution. It will, however, not exceed the county appropriation of $100 to any association. The matter was finally left in the hands of the committee. William Carley, Embarrasser, Guy Munbrue, Waupaca, and L. W. Eastling, Manawa.

Higher Water Plan
In line with this, especially in reference to conservation, the board adopted a resolution, copies of which was ordered sent to Governor Philip LaFollette, Senator F. Ryan Duffy, Senator Robert LaFollette, State Senator H. J. Severson and Assemblyman Alvin Handrich, as well as to the proper war department officials at Washington, to the effect that it appears to the best interests of agriculture and sanitation that a higher and constant level of water be maintained in the Wolf river, and that the county go on record as favoring a higher level of water in the Wolf river than has been maintained in the past.

Charles Holmes, assistant divisional engineer of the state highway commission from Wisconsin Rapids, addressed the board in reference to federal aid on the county road systems, telling the board that the state meets federal funds on a 50-50 basis.

He explained that there is now available in each county in the state the sum of $18,000 for work on roads and bridges during the next two years.

$10,000 for Bridge
Being told by Highway Commissioner Larson that the Little Wolf bridge on County Trunk X is the worst in the county and must be replaced since it was broken down during the winter by a caterpillar tractor, the board resolved to take $10,000 from the highway machine rental fund, matching it with the federal aid and commerce work on the bridge this summer.

Reporting the bridge in the town of Union in bad condition, the board decided that $10,000 be raised this fall for the purpose, that amount to be matched by the preferred aid. This job will not be let until next year. While all bridges are in need of repair or replacement, having been built in "horse and buggy days" according to Mr. Larson only the two mentioned will be replaced within the near future.

Before closing the two days session, Chairman Eastling expressed to the board, his appreciation of the honor they had extended by his reelection, also for their cooperation, saying that while there were heated arguments many times, no county board in the state was more cooperative and none showed more public spiritedness.

General Motors' directors this week elected a new president, two new vice presidents. Because General Motors is the world's largest automobile manufacturing corporation, its election of new officers attracts wide attention. Because the three men elevated to new offices in the corporation have one thing in common, a good deal of moralizing may be expected.

The common denominator is that all three—William S. Knudsen, the new president; Melvin E. Coyle and Floyd O. Tanner, new vice presidents—are self-made men. All three have come up from the ranks: Knudsen, immigrant Dane, from shipyard and bicycle plant; Coyle from a little cooperage concern, Tanner from a tool-maker apprenticeship.

Laments have been heard that the day of the self-made man is over. The inference has been that the struggle to rise is not worth while and that the cards are stacked against the man who lacks the background of specialized training. The 1936-37 edition of Who's Who has been cited as listing one of every 170 college graduates in the Nation, but only one of every 1,700 high school graduates and one of every 51,000 grade school graduates.

Knudsen, Coyle and Tanner made their own opportunities, secured the special training they needed on the job. All three men studied at night. Coyle familiarized himself with accounting methods by the study of his employer's books during evening hours.

The story of these three men is the story of America. We are inclined to smile, nowadays, at the Horatio Alger school of fiction. Some men, however, still refuse to smile, preferring to translate fiction into truth.

NO NEED FOR HASTE

It is announced that Coronation Week may witness the start of regularly-scheduled trans-Atlantic airplane passenger and mail service between Europe and North America.

Great seaplanes are ready; the wide-winged Cavalier of Imperial Airways now making short hops around Bermuda, the pioneering Clippers of Pan American Airways. Germany's Lufthansa and Air France are grooming new multi-motored giant flying boats for a series of survey flights. Work is hurried on landing bases and terminals.

Already, the world's great air lines are experimenting with land planes for the North Atlantic service. Great Britain has its Albatross; the United States the high-altitude, torpedo-shaped Boeing.

Regularly-scheduled trans-Atlantic service via air soon is to be an accepted fact. But, let there be no hurrying of preparations for the flights. Competition is to be expected; indeed, will operate to assure greatest possible safety. Projected trans-Atlantic services, however, cannot afford tragedy that results from too-eager effort to translate plans into accomplished fact.

The public watches with interest the preparations that are going forward to bridge the Atlantic with heavier-than-air commercial planes. The public will not be quick to forgive failure and possible attendant loss of life that may result because air lines have chosen to make a race of what should be a carefully-calculated, soberly-attempted conquest of the air.

WHAT LABOR WANTS

There has been much talk of Henry Ford giving his workmen, perhaps, a spectacular wage raise, as a gesture against unionism, suggesting that they don't really have to organize to get better pay. He has done that before.

But a shrewd observer, as quoted by Columnist Howard Vincent O'Brien, doesn't believe such generosity would have the same effect this time. For a curious change seems to have come about.

Labor today, he insists, is interested more in principle than in pay; more in self-respect, in feeling itself a responsible and respected partner in industry, than in higher wage scales and shorter working hours.

"That may seem strange to you," he says, "but from what large employers tell me, it is a fact. What labor wants is not so much increased earnings themselves as a share in the determination of what those earnings are to be. Not to recognize this is to miss the significance of what is going on now all over the world."

CHILDHOOD HOLDS HOPE

There is a great deal to be said in favor of the plan that has brought one hundred Berlin youngsters to Cleveland for six weeks of study in public schools of the Ohio city and that will send an equal number of Cleveland boys and girls to the schools of the German capital for a like stay.

There is less to be said in favor of enthusiastic propagandists of Cleveland who distributed circulars among the children on their arrival, urging them to make the most of their six weeks' stay as the period "undoubtedly will be the freest weeks which you will have had." The circulars also referred to "the routine propaganda which you have been instructed to spread."

Fair-thinking Americans will believe the episode is an unfortunate beginning of an experiment that has much to commend it. If nations and peoples are to win through to a fairer day when there will be less distrust, each of the other, it will be those, now children, who will bring about the happier relationship. Certainly, adult generations of the post-war years have demonstrated their unfitness for the task.

The German children have much to learn from us. The most valuable knowledge they can take with them when they return to their homes is the confidence that the vaunted American belief in fair play really is a part of the American character. American children, too, can learn during their stay in Berlin that Germans are sober, industrious folk who want happier times for their children.

Leave the children to themselves. They will learn, too soon, that the hopes of peoples can be betrayed. Perhaps, knowing that the youth of other lands holds aspirations that are no different than their own, the cause of understanding will have been advanced.

SOLAR WEATHER

There have been terrific storms on the sun lately. And those storms, as usual, have been reflected here on our earth, in electric displays and in what our weather experts unpoetically call "precipitation."

The sun storms themselves seem to be electric. They have been so fierce that they set up tremendous magnetic disturbances in our atmosphere, interfering with radio and telegraphy and with ships' compasses, and resulting in brilliant displays of Northern Lights. What one scientist calls "the mighty rivers of electricity flowing in circular paths, around the earth's magnetic poles" have been comparable to the swollen floods in our rivers. And in fact, the water floods are associated with the electric floods. Excessive solar storms are usually accompanied by excessive rainfall, and the sunspot cycle and high-water cycle have a well-defined connection.

It isn't only the rivers, either, that have been acting up. The Great Lakes levels have been rising rapidly again, after one of the greatest low-level periods on record.

All these phenomena seem to run in cycles averaging about 11 and one-half years. With them belongs the "drouth cycle" that has been devastating our western plains lately, though it seems to lag a little behind the eastern areas in rainfall.

The experts say there is a larger cycle of 23 years, and a super-cycle of 46 years. According to this sort of analysis, the drouth cycle is now ending, and the next serious one will not begin until about 1975.

If this is true, the regions apparently turning to deserts may be restored again.

DOG'S RIGHT OF WAY

A dog's life was saved the other day. The animal didn't know he was in any danger. Somehow or other he had started trotting across a railroad trestle. Then the going proved difficult and the dog had to pick his way carefully over the spaced ties.

A railroad switch engine was approaching the trestle. The engineer saw the dog and saw that the animal would either be thrown off or crushed by the engine. Neither possibility appealed to the engineer. So he backed off the trestle and waited until the animal reached safety and bounded away.

Perhaps that dog's life wasn't important and perhaps the motorist who were delayed a few moments at a nearby crossing were out on important business. But nobody can prove it. And one thing is sure, the engineer did his own soul some good by his merciful act.

Opinions Of Others

THE REAL POWER

A few years ago someone called attention to the easy formula for satisfying the American people, when anything wrong is discovered. It is "Let's make a law against it."

The silly soothing syrup now is being applied one point further back. The cry now is, "Let's appoint a commission and investigate!"

Of course, the investigation is supposed to get facts on which to base a law, and then we are back where we started. The fact is that a little law goes a long way if force of public opinion is strong enough. And laws most drastically worded are weak things when they lack backing of the public will.

In adjusting the relationships of groups of our population made up for the most part of well-intentioned individuals, good counsel and conference are far more potent than the letter of any law.—Detroit News

HEARD, yesterday, that Dave Windsor has composed a song to be played at his wedding and that he played it for Willie on the bagpipes. . . I have heard a lot of silly things concerning those two, but this is about the silliest. . . true or not, I can't imagine anything worse-sounding than a love song on bagpipes. . . or any kind of a song on bagpipes. . . bagpipes are in general classification of steam whistles, squeaky doors, the pig division at the slaughter houses, saw mills, rivet hammers, and bad brakes. . . unless accompanied by a squadron of Scots about to set out for battle, bagpipes in any quantity are pretty horrible things to hear. . .

Yeah, and I'm part Scotch, too, in case any Scotchmen in these parts wants to make something of it.

SWEETNESS AND LIGHT DEPT.

Jonah,

(Ed. Note: Actually headed—"Miserable Jonah")

If I'd say "Dear Jonah," you say I was a hypocrite. At any rate, Frankie still is pretty smart. He pulled one over and got what he wanted. He scared the Supreme Court into making two momentous, favorable decisions. What follows now is of very little consequence.

—LaFollette Progressive

Tsk, tsk, my friend, tsk, tsk. Why things have only just started. And never for a minute intimate that I think Frankie isn't smart. He's very smart. He's the fastest thinking politician we've ever had in the White House. My complaint is that he's too smart for the nation's good.

This was written before the Cubs played yesterday afternoon, but at the rate they had been going for the five games previous, it looks like all they need to win the pennant for sure is to cripple a few more good players.

The Sox, meanwhile, have no injury alibis, and they have been playing like they were tetch in the head. Every time I get interested in a team it always does something of this nature.

Radio comedians apparently figure that playing to the studio audience is enough. It makes me mad, however, to hear people chortling about something I can't see—and never hear about.

But I'm hanging tough and listening to whatever ones I have time for. Sooner or later, I'm going to get a laugh.

Just like I'm hanging tough and looking for the gag that'll give you folks a laugh.

HER WEDDING GOWN

June bought her wedding gown today. The salesgirl sighed and looked away. Sad with the swift remembering Of her own shattered bygone Spring.

Chock-full of pins, the fitter's lips Could scarcely smile, although her eyes Were dewy, and her fingertips Touched tenderly the silken prize.

Today June bought her wedding gown. And sunlight fell across the town That had too long been locked in gloom. I saw the sunshine in my room.

I know that it will fall as well Across the happy golden year. Where June and her true love will dwell June bought her wedding gown today! (Copyright, 1937)

DISPOSAL OF OLD DOCTOR DODDER

During the present session of the French legislature there is to be introduced a bill to compel professional men and women—physicians, architects, dentists, engineers—to retire at the age of 65 years. The object of the proposed law is to make more room for the younger members of these professions.

There is no provision in the bill to pay government pensions to these superannuated ones, and naturally a great deal of violent opposition will be made by the old ladies and gentlemen of the law would shelve. Members of liberal professions in France have to pay, in addition to personal property and income taxes, a tax called "patente," a license tax calculated on the fair rental value of the space occupied in the practice of the profession. One suggestion already made by the professional people is that this "patente" tax be used to establish a fund to pay a pension to professional men or women who may be forced to retire.

In exceptional instances a man or woman past 65 years of age may retain extraordinary vigor of mind. I understand there are four or five old gentlemen in Washington who purport to be right smart yet. But even so, there is no great dearth of brains, no serious shortage of material for all of the professions, and after all, the venerable ones have had their fair whack at it. Why shouldn't they retire gracefully as befits persons of their age, and give the young blood a chance?

The French bill, however, seems pretty severe. Surely if anybody is to be compelled to retire on attaining an arbitrary age limit, the state should at least pension him.

As soon as we can work out a satisfactory old age pension, one that will be adequate to protect the aged from deprivation, then compulsory retirement from work, profession or business should become part of the law.

The U. S. government has a hard-headed opinion that a man who has attained the age of 64 years is no longer useful in the army. He retires then, but with a pension.

In the profession of medicine it seems doubtful whether any man past 65 years of age is of enough importance to retain in practice. From the age of 65 onward ought to be an excellent time for a retired doctor to do some writing or to devote himself to whatever avocation, hobby or their pursuit he has never before been able to follow as much as he would like.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Geographic Tongue
Is there a known cause for the condition called "geographic tongue?" Can it be cured? (Mrs. C. M. P.)

Answer—I believe it is due to shortage of vitamins B. G and D in the diet.

When's a Man Old?
I am 54, shy on hair, carry a small bay window, have all my teeth, enjoy a good workout playing ball or handball two hours every second day. Feel fine, except stiffness day after some games. Many friends say a man of my age is crazy to play like that, and I am certain to have a heart attack or something. (G. H. W. S.)

Answer—Oh, well, a man lives only once. In your place I'd keep on playing and laugh the long faced friends out of their morbid anxiety.

Blackheads and Pimples
My druggist made up the formula you suggested for blackheads and pimples—sublimed sulphur, compound tincture of lavender, with hazel, camphor water and glycerin, one ounce of each. It has helped a lot, but sometimes it seems to make my eyes smart a good deal. (C. A.)

Answer—Sublimed sulphur is otherwise called flowers of sulphur. Be sure the lotion contains all five ingredients. Apply it at night, after a vigorous scrubbing of face with hot water and plain soap and repeated rinsing with tepid and cold water. Let the lotion dry on the skin. Wash off next morning. Repeat this two or three times a week. For further instructions on blackheads and pimples or acne send stamped envelope bearing your address.

Your Birthday

"TAURUS"

If May 8 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10 a. m. until noon from 2 to 4 p. m. and from 8 to 10 p. m. The danger periods are from 8 to 10 a. m., from 4 to 6 p. m. and from 10 p. m. to midnight.

You will have to make good use of your shrewd judgement this day, so as to avoid mistakes. Haphazard actions will bring trouble in their wake. This is a bad day for you to be late in keeping appointments, or to deliberately break an engagement. Avoid disappointing anyone. Many misplaced things will be found in unexpected places. There is likely to be a great deal of entertaining done this day, much of it being impromptu. You may make some contact through social activities, that will turn out to be helpful to you in the near future. It might be advisable to qualify any strong statement you feel called upon to make. Married and engaged couples, as well as those Cupid has in tow, must be careful no desire on their part will appear as a lack of consideration.

If a woman and May 8 is your birthday, you are pleasure-loving despite the fact you probably have a very serious mind. You have a great amount of will power, and most likely you will have opportunity to make good use of it. Be careful how freely you make comments of an adverse nature this day. You most likely have many clever thoughts, which are capable of being turned into money-makers. The chances are good fortune will make you a very happy person. Love seems to be vital to your success, so do not spurn it. There is danger that when prosperity comes knocking at your door you may refrain from opening it. There will be many worthwhile suggestions offered to you, so give them all your careful consideration. As a musician, artist, movie star, saleslady or writer you may discover the road that leads to wealth. Your matrimonial chances for happiness are excellent.

The child born on May 8, generally, as soon as it enters preparatory school, displays a keen interest in both its studies and outdoor sports.

If a man and May 8 is your natal day, you are probably very energetic, progressive and practical. As a banker, insurance or real estate

Seen And Heard In New York

BY GEORGE TUCKER

New York — Maybe they will put those extraordinary water-colors by Ogden M. Pleissner into a book. You can almost smell the spruce and pine if you pass the door on 52nd street where they are exhibited. And if you go inside, and stand very quiet, you can catch a movement in the New Brunswick underbrush, or see a salmon break water. . .

These are 25 special water-colors of trout and salmon fishing in fast, rough Wyoming streams and in a paradise of New Brunswick waters.

Pleissner is one of those rare New Yorkers whose vacations, instead of becoming unremunerative drains on the pocketbook, turn into fat windfalls at the end of each season. That is why he is, at the moment, leisurely assembling his colors and his tackle for another summer in the wilds. In a little while he is due at the C. M. ranch in Wyoming. Later, as is his annual custom, he will go on into New Brunswick to take up with his salmon friends where he left off last fall.

As a matter of possible interest to you, those 25 canvases went on exhibition one day, and less than one week later 24 of them had been sold — snapped up by anglers who know what it means to draw on waders, thread long, limber buggy — whip roads with chilled, trembling hands, and wade fast, white-capped water from daybreak till dark, looking for brooks, browns, natives, rainbows, gleaming steelheads.

There has been an unhurried, withal steady, converging on the Sporting Galleries, where these pictures are displayed, by men who like to take fresh water game fish with artificial lures.

They come singly and in pairs to see what Pleissner has to say in color about fishing — to linger before each of the 25 vignettes (they are really arrested moments) and, inevitably, to discuss similar, adventures of their own, and to leave, regretfully, with nostalgic mutterings of their own summer ambitions.

It is a sermon, almost, to see them lingering before each painting. A lucky fellow here is gaffing a salmon. Another is leading a whipped brownie to net. There are long canoes on silent pools whose mirrored waters reflect everything except the cage game the anglers have come so far to capture.

As is well known, this department is no art oracle — nevertheless it does pretend to some familiarity with the taking of game fish on artificial lures. The thing it would like to point out is that nowhere, in art, have I encountered such fidelity in technique, such naturalness, as here. I wouldn't know Pleissner from Adam's house cat, nor have I ever seen him.

However, I can tell you this: he is a man who knows how to fish. Every single sketch in the exhibit literally drips with authority.

A Bystander In Washington

BY PRESTON GROVER

Washington—John L. Lewis has found another hard nut to crack in Harlan county, Kentucky.

The story is being told in the patchwork testimony of a senate investigation into violation of the rights of labor. The committee is sympathetic to the position of labor so not much of the employer's side of the story is told. Any that does appear bolsters the picture of savage distrust between the bosses and the bossed in those fabulously tough coal camps in the big black mountains that divide Virginia and southeastern Kentucky.

The town of Lynch, one of several on a tributary jutting out from Poor Fork, was described by witnesses as almost wholly owned by the United States Coal and Coke company. The only notable exception is a strip of public highway down the center of town. That's important to remember, because the company, witnesses said, has issued an order that no union organizer can operate on company property. That includes the side streets and the homes of the mine workmen.

"Deputies" Union organizers testified that "deputies" ordered them off the side streets, and even ordered them out of the homes the miners had rented from the company.

These "deputies" had a strange status which witnesses seemed unable to define. They wore badges and carried arms but refused to say whether they were policemen, company employees, or just what.

Union organizers called meetings of miners but, the testimony ran, these were so picketed by deputies that few dared attend.

Several testified that men who joined the unions promptly lost their jobs because of some slight infraction of company rules while such penalties were withheld from non-union men.

A company superintendent testified that a "check" election brought a vote of 267 to 5 against organization of a union. But each miner had to sign his ballot. Spectators laughed at such secrecy.

No Change

The committee brings out little testimony of living conditions. That is partly out of its scope since it is investigating infractions of civil liberties. But such testimony would form a clearer picture of the situation. Questioning more company officials might also help. One official said "lots" of the workers' houses had running water. He conceded it was 30 out of 225.

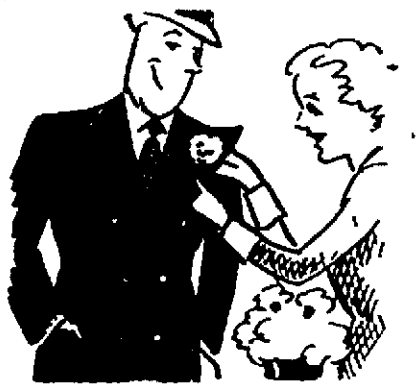

Have the Wagner labor decisions made any difference? Perhaps it is too early to say, but John Y. Brown, former Kentucky congressman, now mine union attorney, said he was told by a company executive that union organizers still must keep off company property. The Wagner act protects the right to organize, but not to trespass.

Cracksman At 8

London—(U)—"The worst small boy" an English judge ever saw was chained down and forced by his parents to wear leaded shoes—still he wound up in court.

The youngster is only eight years old, but policemen said he operates like "an expert cracksman." Sometimes this prodigy in wrong-doing took his brothers, seven and five, along with him on a housebreaking trip.

Fifteen robberies, in which the loot totaled $150, are laid to the youngster. Police were loth to believe his stories until he showed them just how he operated. The juvenile court decided to send the malefactor to a special school.

Symphony Orchestra and Soloist Appear in Concert

BY GEORGE E. HOFFMAN
The Appleton Symphony orchestra, under Jay I. Williams, last night gave a pleasing performance at Lawrence Memorial chapel. William Miller, tenor soloist, was recalled for encores again and again.

The Haydn Symphony No. 88 was the high point of the evening. It was sympathetically and intelligently interpreted, and showed flexibility of style in the orchestra. An expressive, melodic symphony, the Eighty-eighth was capably played throughout.

The Don Quixote suite, in four sections, was played with color and feeling, and was very well received by the audience. It pictures graphically a Spanish village, the foolish servant Sancho Panza, Dulcinea, and the Don himself. This work was pleasing throughout.

Good Rendition
Verdi's "Dance of the Moorish Slaves" from Aida was given a tuneful rendition which might have been accented better with a little more staccato playing, but it was well rendered otherwise. Berlioz Marche Hongroise and "Soedermann's Swedish Brodlops" were also tunefully played.

Mr. Miller's songs were light and pleasantly sentimental. In addition to such familiar numbers as "I'll Take You Home Again Kathleen" he sang the recent "Short'nin' Bread," and similar numbers which won for him enthusiastic applause. He was generous with his encores.

The orchestra's playing was smooth and expressive throughout the evening, and showed both practice and understanding. Numbers on the program were well chosen, and made a pleasant combination. The concert was thoroughly enjoyable from beginning to end.

Old Player Delights in Trapping Young Experts

BY ELY CULBERTSON

The "Major" is a familiar character in New York bridge clubs. One of the best of the old whist and auction players, it was almost necessary to anesthetize him to take up contract when it became popular. (Later, of course, he acted as though he had been the father of the new game.) He is choleric and quite intolerant of what he calls "scientific players." He knows no joy as keen as trapping a young expert in either bidding or play. Imagine his ecstasy, then, when the declarer in the hand shown below walked into the spider's parlor like an innocent little fly.

The bidding:
North East South West

2 spades Pass 5 hearts Pass
3 spades Pass 4 spades Pass

The "Major" sat West. His partner having passed originally, the "Major" felt that it would be futile to double the one spade bid for a take-out. To do so would involve shading the requirements slightly and probably come to no good. As to the final contract of four spades, the "Major" thought that he could almost surely beat it, felt that his singleton king would be safer in the absence of a double.

The queen of clubs was the opening lead, won by the ace, and East returned the deuce of diamonds. The "Major" gathered in declarer's king, and thought matters over carefully. Declarer's bidding had virtually guaranteed ten cards in the major suits. The deuce of diamonds led by East had virtually guaranteed that the king was a singleton. Declarer probably had started with only two clubs to the king and therefore, would have no club that would give him entry to dummy by ruffing. It was highly unlikely that declarer would lead up to the jack of hearts in dummy, since there was no assurance that the king was under, instead of over, the jack, and also since such an effort would court a ruff of heart. Rather than put declarer back into his own hand and virtually force him to bang down the ace of trumps, the "Major" determined to be "kind" and to help declarer reach dummy for a trump finesse. He selected a suit for this purpose that would be almost sure to be won in dummy, a low heart. Dummy's nine was played and, when it held, declarer shot a suspicious glance at the "Major." But he could not know that he had deliberately put him in dummy for ulterior purposes and, therefore, cannot be blamed for promptly taking the trump finesse and losing to the "Major's" singleton king. Later, of course the "Major" had to get his heart king for the setting trick. The declarer felt badly about losing his contract but much worse about giving the "Major" so much ammunition for gloating purposes.

Mr. Culbertson will discuss this hand in tomorrow's article.

JO-JOTTE POINTER
Jo-Jotte is full of situations in which the lead may cost a trick. Typical is the case of ten-small in one player's hand and ace-small in the other player's hand. If the player with the ten must lead that suit he will not make his ten as long as declarer plays correctly. The lead of the ten will lose to the ace and the lead of the small card will merely elicit opponent's small card. Then the ace will capture the ten. This situation is especially common in no trump play in which a player can afford to hold up a high card without fearing to have it ruffed away on a later round. When possible make a lead in a suit which is not thus "tenaced," and try to preserve safe leads for "exit" purposes.

Write your bridge troubles and problems to Ely Culbertson, care of this paper, inclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

It's Easier To Achieve Beauty Now

BY ELSIE PIERCE

Picture yourself going through the contortions of lacing yourself (or being laced) into the steel harness of Grandmother's time. Then compare that breathing-taking ordeal with the ease of getting into your cleverly-cut, perfectly-fitted, feather-weight undergarment. And, say you are not happy to be part of this generation. I dare you!

Picture yourself way back when a Permanent meant winding the hair on sticks, packing it in clay, baking in the sun for days. Then think of getting your permanent today — a matter of two hours, perhaps, from preliminary shampoo to final setting. Think of getting a permanent, in fact, without electricity, without machinery, without wires or heaters — just a gentle, chemically-heated sachet putting the wave in by a vapor process. Imagine being able to walk about, do your telephoning, catching up on that short story (you probably won't finish it before your wave is finished), while the permanent is "taking." It IS easier now, isn't it?

Think of the time, and not so long ago at that, when powder was either a dead white or a deep pink and heavy as flour. It may have accomplished its mission of "toning down shine." Right through the ages women have feared a shiny nose. But it must have showed up every little flaw, wrinkle and imperfection since it seldom matched the skin it covered. And it must have clogged and enlarged ever so many pores. Contrast that with the special powder textures of today, prepared for either the dry or the oily skin, powders that are fine and powders that are super-fine. And the long line of shades, ready-prepared or specially and individually blended to harmonize perfectly not only with the delicate nuances of your skin, but meant to change, darker or lighter, as your skin changes with the season. Isn't life and beauty easier now?

Think of the concept and standard of Beauty a few decades ago. The baby who wasn't beautiful at birth started with a handicap. She never stood any chance of becoming a beauty because beauty at that time was limited to perfection of features. Today every baby of the fairer sex is born with an equal right and equal chance of achieving beauty according to our modern standards.

Physicians and Beauticians are working together; milliners and hairdressers; reducing salons and modistes; make-up authorities and costume color experts. The whole world is full of Beauty. Science and Art have merged for the purpose of intilling a beauty consciousness out of which the world has evolved A New Beauty within the reach of all. Yes, it is easier now to "Be Beautiful."

My "Beauty Schedul" is yours for a self-addressed, stamped (10-cent) envelope. It may help you with the daily details in your duty to Beauty. Address Miss Pierce in care of the Appleton Post-Crescent.

Stanley's Adventures in Africa

V—OVER KALULU FALLS

Danger, narrow escapes and death!

Those words tell a great deal about the story of Stanley's trip down the Congo river. Perhaps the worst day of the trip was March 28, 1877, when three canoes were swept over Kalulu falls.

Over the brink went the canoe!

The falls did not have that name at the time. They were so-named later, in honor of Kalulu, a native in the first canoe to go over the brink. He had been a faithful and helpful man during the long journey across Africa. Following his death, an effort was made to honor him by calling the falls after him.

There were several others with Kalulu in the canoe which was called the "Crocodile." The river seemed quiet enough, and none of them knew of the drop ahead until it was too late. Over the brink they went, and were never seen again.

Stanley and most of the others had halted before reaching the falls, and were able to watch the fearful event. A few moments later they saw another canoe, containing only two men, speeding toward the falls. A warning was shouted to them, but it was too late. Next followed a little canoe, with only one person aboard — a youth named Wadi. It, too, was whisked over the falls.

No one on the bank would have believed that people in a canoe could go over the falls and live to tell the tale—until it actually happened. The two men in the second canoe made the leap with skill or good fortune—or both. Their canoe was kept right side up, and they were able to reach the left bank of the river, below the falls.

Even more strange was the adventure of Wadi, the young native in the third canoe. No one caught sight of him after he shot over the brink—until three days later. Then he came into camp with this tale:

"I went over those falls, also some others down below. The wild river took me down and down and down, but I clung to the canoe. At last I saw a little island, close by, and was able to swim to it, pulling the canoe along with me."

Wadi had been able to get from the island to the river bank in his canoe. He was welcomed by his friends as if he had "come back from the dead."

Must Use Dip Handling

BY DOROTHY DIX

A bewildered mother, who realizes to manage her adolescent son as she can give her a few suggestions about predictable creature into which her turned.

She is which ex endure I array and but there the situa not only from ever and unre present t days in st er flatter househol he reverts

Hence the mother of an adolescent is to bid her funny bone, for this affliction will ing John. His voice will settle down landing in jail or the insane asylum fyer's office, or be an up-and-coming young man in business. And the mother's salvation, as well as the boy's, depends upon her being able to laugh off his youthful follies instead of making tragedies out of them.

Now no one will contend that an adolescent boy is easy to get along with. On the contrary, he is about as pleasant a companion as a fretful porcupine. He bristles with feelings. He is abnormally vain and self-conscious. He is as full of foolish notions as an egg is of meat. And he is so drunk with his first draught of freedom that he resents the slightest suggestion of control.

His case should be treated with as much finesse as if it were a League of Nations problem. But, alas, few parents waste diplomacy upon their children. So Johnny and father and mother are at logger-heads, and father and mother not only lose the chance of steadying and guiding him at the most important crisis in his life, but only too often do they estrange him besides.

So my first suggestion to the mother with an adolescent son is to put on her velvet gloves when she handles him. Don't let him see that you are managing him. Suggest instead of commanding. Quit treating him as if he were a child. Don't tell him to do this and not to do that as you did when he was six years old. Pretend that you think that he is a man and that he will act like a man, and the chances are he will do it.

Cut out the questionnaire that the adolescent boy considers such a reflection on his manhood. The wisest mother I know says that her tongue is a half inch shorter than it used to be because she bit that much off of it in keeping from asking her sons when they were 18 and 19 where they were going, with whom they were going and what they were going to do. Because, she said, if they were going where they should not go they would lie about it, and if they were going where they should go it didn't make any difference whether or not she knew about it. Imitate her example.

Don't get into a panic every time your boy goes to see a girl. That's the surest way to drive him into an early marriage. Don't ridicule his taste in dress and poke fun at his passionate neckties and socks or his exaggerated clothes. That is his strut to attract the attention of the girls who are just as silly as he is.

Don't think he is lazy and no-account because you can't get him up in the morning and because it wears you out to try to get him to do a chore about the house. Don't take him too seriously. Few of the things that seem to mean so much

Poor Tools Are Expensive If Used by School Pupils

BY ANGELO PATRI

Tony was making a box for his wagon. He was trying to nail it together, and making a poor job of it. His hammer landed anywhere but on the head of the nail. With a muttered impatience he let go the handle and grasped the hammer head by the claws and beat the nails home.

"That's a funny way to hammer nails, Tony."

"Isn't it? But this hammer is no good. You can't hit a nail with it."

"That's right," said the teacher. "It is badly balanced. It should carry downward on its own weight, but it doesn't. Try another one, Tony."

Poor tools are expensive things. They teach children the wrong idea. Tony's hammer gave him the wrong feeling in his hand and arm. Unless he gets a good hammer at once and this feeling that has been registered in his muscular memory regarding hammers is corrected speedily, he will use a hammer the wrong way. Even when he gets a good one he will use it badly because he has been trained wrong.

It is customary to buy the cheapest possible materials for school children's use. That is necessary in one way. Public money for schools is scarce and must be made to go as far as possible. But there is a grade of cheapness that spells expense, and it has been reached when we buy paper that tears under the pencil.

lot of doing to teach him the right way now.

Buying books for children is another investment that calls for care. Don't buy the books that have poor paper, poor type, narrow margins. Such books strain the eyes and form bad reading habits. The eye habits that a child learns while reading are what make reading easy for him or a strain on him. Buy books that have good paper not shiny. See that the type is clear and is large enough. If you buy one with the name of a good publishing house on it you are very likely to get the right kind. There is a cheapness that is too costly.

Aside from the fact that little service can be had out of such tools there is the more important fact that children get wrong impressions by using poor materials. "Please give me a paper of needles," said a child to the millinery teacher in a big trade school.

"A whole package?"

"Yes. Some won't have points, some will break, some will have eyes that cut threads, so I need a whole package to start with so as to save time coming after them."

"You won't find these needles like that. They are good ones. One of them ought to last you for six weeks or more."

"A needle? For six weeks? I never had such a needle. Where I came from we had to bring our own needles from home if we wanted good ones. My that's fine to have a good needle."

"You don't need to push on that saw, son. Just shove it along gently and it will do the cutting. Don't put your weight on it like that. Here, lightly, just enough pressure to let the teeth catch."

"I can't see that way. I have to push the saw or it won't cut for me." The boy had been used to handling a poor saw, one that had not been set right or that could not be set right. He had learned to saw the wrong way, and it would take a

REACH NEW PEAK
Washington.—The justice department says more liquor law violators went to federal prison in 1936 than in 1932 the peak prohibition year.

The statisticians didn't figure out why, but Sanford Bates, recently resigned prison bureau director told a congressional committee repeal of state laws and increased severity of the courts had a good deal to do with the increase.

Must Use Dip Handling

BY DOROTHY DIX

A bewildered mother, who realizes to manage her adolescent son as she can give her a few suggestions about predictable creature into which her turned.

She is which ex endure I array and but there the situa not only from ever and unre present t days in st er flatter househol he reverts

Hence the mother of an adolescent is to bid her funny bone, for this affliction will ing John. His voice will settle down landing in jail or the insane asylum fyer's office, or be an up-and-coming young man in business. And the mother's salvation, as well as the boy's, depends upon her being able to laugh off his youthful follies instead of making tragedies out of them.

Now no one will contend that an adolescent boy is easy to get along with. On the contrary, he is about as pleasant a companion as a fretful porcupine. He bristles with feelings. He is abnormally vain and self-conscious. He is as full of foolish notions as an egg is of meat. And he is so drunk with his first draught of freedom that he resents the slightest suggestion of control.

His case should be treated with as much finesse as if it were a League of Nations problem. But, alas, few parents waste diplomacy upon their children. So Johnny and father and mother are at logger-heads, and father and mother not only lose the chance of steadying and guiding him at the most important crisis in his life, but only too often do they estrange him besides.

So my first suggestion to the mother with an adolescent son is to put on her velvet gloves when she handles him. Don't let him see that you are managing him. Suggest instead of commanding. Quit treating him as if he were a child. Don't tell him to do this and not to do that as you did when he was six years old. Pretend that you think that he is a man and that he will act like a man, and the chances are he will do it.

Cut out the questionnaire that the adolescent boy considers such a reflection on his manhood. The wisest mother I know says that her tongue is a half inch shorter than it used to be because she bit that much off of it in keeping from asking her sons when they were 18 and 19 where they were going, with whom they were going and what they were going to do. Because, she said, if they were going where they should not go they would lie about it, and if they were going where they should go it didn't make any difference whether or not she knew about it. Imitate her example.

Don't get into a panic every time your boy goes to see a girl. That's the surest way to drive him into an early marriage. Don't ridicule his taste in dress and poke fun at his passionate neckties and socks or his exaggerated clothes. That is his strut to attract the attention of the girls who are just as silly as he is.

Don't think he is lazy and no-account because you can't get him up in the morning and because it wears you out to try to get him to do a chore about the house. Don't take him too seriously. Few of the things that seem to mean so much

Laws 25 Years Ago Were More Stringent Than Now

BY WESTBROOK FEGLER

New York—The suppression of dirty burlesque may strike some of our citizens as more oppression by the same blue-nosed witch-burners who inflicted prohibition on the land, but a quick canvass will show that the country is much more tolerant today than it was 25 years ago.

Prizefighting was then forbidden in many states which now permit the slashing tigers to attack one another with furious jets and rights to the face and body. Horse racing was narrowed down to New York, Maryland, Kentucky and New Orleans, and had recently been forbidden in New York. Sunday baseball was illegal in New York, and dog racing with the mechanical bunny during the feeble-minded hound, was not yet known. The greyhound's forehead recedes so quickly that he can scarcely be said to have any forehead at all, and that may explain why he continues to chase the synthetic rabbit which is such an obvious fraud that even the dog race bettors know at a glance that it is artificial. That means that the pretense must be very apparent, because the dog race gambler, next to the slot machine gambler, is the most gullible type that the human race has ever produced.

Nowadays both the dogs and slots operate openly in many localities, either with or without the sanction of the law. In places where they violate the law they pay graft to the dominant political organization or to the prosecutor, sheriff and chief of police individually. Everybody knows to all about this, but people are so tolerant now that it is considered quite all right for public officials to sell off the privilege of robbing the citizens.

In 1919 New York was a straight-laced city. The strict morals of the nation began to relax shortly after the war. It may be hard to realize it now but in 1919 New York was a very straight-laced city. Racing was just barely permitted, and was looked upon as a small sin, but betting was illegal, and, therefore, more or less clandestine. The hall clubs drew their schedules so as to avoid Sundays in New York, and prize fighting was officially immoral.

Then Jimmy Walker put through a Sunday baseball law and followed this with his prizefight law, two feats of liberal legislation which later made him mayor. His prizefight law permitted round decision bouts, and it almost ruined the business in Philadelphia and near-by Jersey cities which permitted short, no decision fights. At that time fighting was legal in the Twin Cities of Minnesota and in Milwaukee, but Chicago was not to have fights or racing for several years.

There were some small fights in Texas, but all persons implicated in these productions took a chance of going to jail for violation of a law adopted by a special session of the legislature in 1898.

Nevada Always Permits Any Type of Show. The Texans were intensely moral in some respects in the wild and woolly days of '98, and when it was later permitted to present the Corbett-Fitzsimmons bout there the legislature was summoned for the sole purpose of passing a law against this disgraceful spectacle. So the show was finally moved up into Nevada, whose state motto always burning and burning, and the desire for frequent urination caused by or associated with excess and heat, these tablets also tend to ease the flow of urine. Here is what Dr. Pierce's A-muric did for Mrs. Elmer Hanson. She said: "At times I almost seem to get out of function. They act too freely and compel me to urinate at night. Dr. Pierce's A-muric has given me splendid relief." Consult Dr. Pierce's Clinic, Buffalo, N. Y.

proved as evidence of intent to commit a grievous offense against the peace and dignity of the state.

Fifteen years ago it was beyond imagination that Ohio would permit racing with open betting, and these sinful devices seemed to have been cast out of the New England states forever. Since then, however, New Hampshire, of all states, has felt a stir of sporting blood, and has legalized racing with mutuels, and there are tracks in Massachusetts and Rhode Island, as well. Massachusetts even has dog races and good old Maine, which repealed prohibition after many years, gambles in pools on the trotters.

Conditions 25 Years Ago. A backward glance reveals that restrictions existed 20 to 25 years ago, which would be considered intolerable now. There were contrabanditions, of course. For example, Chicago, about as tough and incorrigible as any city in American history, endured open gambling, and two notorious patches of brothels while enforcing laws against fights and races. Now Chicago has everything, including nakedness in the shows, and still some of the people complain they have to live in slums.

Devotees of burlesque should not take on too hard. This is a new country, and liberties are slowly won, but perhaps in 20 years civilization will have advanced so far that the foulest entertainment of the present day will be regarded as fit material for class entertainment in the public schools. Give us time.

Lawrence Holds New Political Party Is Needed

Must be Recognized, Under Any Name, as Interested in Average Man

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington—For several days now there have been discussions hereabouts concerning the future of the Republican party. Members of the senate and house have participated in these informal deliberations, but the net result has not been to bring forth any definite formula of action. The underlying questions appear to be these:

1. Shall the Republican party change its name?
2. Shall a new party be formed out of Democrats who have broken with the New Deal and Republicans who opposed the president's re-election?

The answers being given to the first question are numerous, but it is curious that the sentiment for a change in name is diminishing. As for the possible coalition with Democrats, it is being pointed out that the matter is complicated by the existence of local county organizations which are essential to the national party organization and which do not wish to be swallowed up or eliminated in any reorganization plan.

Not being a Republican myself, never having voted the ticket or considered myself a follower of its doctrines, I perhaps am disqualified to discuss what the Republican party ought to do. But it is important that all those who do not believe in the alleged democracy of the New Deal should have an opportunity to express their beliefs through the medium of a two-part system.

New Deal Has Power
The real problem is now to develop a constructive opposition to the party in power, which has so much political machinery at its disposal through government funds and public offices as to keep itself entrenched for several years to come unless there is an uprising of voters who care nothing for party as such and a great deal for principle and fundamental democracy.

Men like Senator Borah of Idaho do not favor a change in name of the Republican party. For one thing, it would do no good to change the label if the men behind the label were dominated by the same reactionary viewpoints that have been so dominant in Republican national conventions. The New Dealers would promptly and rightly say it was the voice of Jacob but the hands of Esau.

The Republican party does not need to undergo a change of name, but a change of heart. Like the present so-called Democratic party, which at times has professed a deep interest in the welfare of the common man, the Republican first had the true touch of devotion to the public interest and lost it in the name of political patronage and governmental favors such as now envelop the New Deal party and will in due time lead also to defeat.

Minority Important
The Republican party has an extraordinary opportunity. A cross section of the 17,000,000 who voted the Republican ticket last fall might be asked what they really want the Republican party to do. Surely, 17,000,000 cannot have been "economic royalists" or interested in treading on the rights and opportunities of their fellow men. Seventeen million persons constitute an enormous part of the electorate and their cooperation is essential in making the economic system of the country function. If they believe in an independent and uncontrolled judiciary and in a truly democratic system of government, as opposed to a fascist system, then the New Deal—which is leaning so strongly toward fascism nowadays—will find it difficult to put their plans for centralized government into operation because of the protest of such a huge minority.

For several months now there has been a studied attempt on the part of the president and his followers "to boo out of existence" the 17,000,000 voters who registered their opposition to the New Deal. The frequent ridicule of Maine and Vermont indulged in by New Deal speakers, headed by Mr. Roosevelt himself, is designed to foster the impression that the nation voted almost unanimously by 46 to 2, last autumn to give the president the right to do as he pleases with everything from the supreme court to the smallest agency of government.

Not All Republicans
The Republican party management, on the other hand, has assumed that all of the 17,000,000 who voted the Republican ticket were Republicans. Nor have any plans been made to take into the opposition ranks the persons who now feel that they made a mistake last autumn when they assumed that Mr. Roosevelt was not going to try to change the American system of government.

There is, to be sure, need for a new political party in America, one that will repudiate the selfishness of republicanism of recent years and the fascism of the New Deal, which is slowly but surely developing its own adaptation of German and Italian concepts of an all-powerful state in which the rights of the individual are subordinated, if not gradually extinguished.

Such a new party might carry the name Republican or any other name so long as it was plainly recognized by the masses to be a party truly interested in the average man. Today, the New Deal is bringing about every month a bigger and bigger cut in the pay envelope of the workers by increasing the cost of living. The decline in "real wages"—as purchasing power of money is called—has been noticeable for some time. This is indirectly due to the unbalanced budget, wastefulness in relief, and unwillingness of the present administration to encourage men of business to create the jobs that will absorb the unemployed. Restrictions and legislative experiments have so impaired the functioning of the economic system that the cost of relief still continues high notwithstanding the increase in the total number employed.

Might Check Fascism
There are many persons who voted the New Deal ticket last autumn and who do not care about party labels. Many of these people today, rightly or wrongly, consider the Republicans to be indifferent to the true welfare of the masses. If the new party which emerged from the present situation were called Republican, but were fundamentally interested in a program to bring about a stabilized prosperity, and whose sincerity were established by their action in behalf of truly progressive measures, the opportunity for New Deal fascism to be extended through a controlled judiciary, legalized monopolies, and centralized government might be considerably curtailed. For the effectiveness of a democracy depends on a free opposition, free from special interests or group selfishness and interested as Lincoln was in the protection of property and human freedom as an inseparable combination.

Waive Interest On County Owned Tax Certificates

Board Makes Concession if Accounts are Paid By Oct. 1

Interest on county owned tax certificates for the years 1931, 1932, 1933, 1934, and 1935 was ordered waived at today's session of the Outagamie county board, provided the accounts are paid by Oct. 1.

The resolution, passed without opposition, provides that the county waive "payment of all the interest on tax certificates for the years 1931, 1932, 1933, 1934 and 1935 which the county owns and not pledged as security, provided that the full amount of such original tax thereon, together with interest to the date of the sale of said certificate and the penalty, publication, redemption and other fees, is paid on or before Oct. 1, 1937."

The problem of hauling crushed stone produced in the WPA farm to market road project, before the board yesterday, was revised this morning by acting Supervisor Frank Schmidt of the town of Buchanan.

Approximately 300 yards of crushed stone are available in stock piles for each town and village of the county, but Supervisor Bottensek reported Thursday that no government funds now are available to meet haulage costs.

Wants Equal Price

Schmidt maintained that although his town contributed its share to the program, it would, because of its location, have to pay a high price for hauling. He moved, as an alternative, that hauling costs be assessed equally against each town and village regardless of location.

Supervisor Esler, Kaukauna, suggested that it might be better business to buy stone from a nearby quarry if it can be obtained for less than the cost of hauling it 20 miles from the project stock piles. O'Connor, Grand Chute, amended the motion to provide that the committee take bids on hauling and all costs be taken from the $32,000 remaining in the county's farm to market road appropriation.

Says Towns Should Pay

Pointing out that the cities, while paying their share of the project, received none of the crushed stone, Esler maintained that if towns wanted to haul stone they should pay for it themselves. Supervisor Scheurle, Appleton, also mentioned that the cities are paying but not sharing in the division of stone, while Jacobs, Appleton, supported Esler's contention that if stone can be purchased, delivered cheaper than it can be hauled, it would be poor business to haul it.

Bottensek explained, however, that if the committee takes bids on a contract to haul all the stone for all the towns and villages it probably can obtain a price at least 25 per cent lower than the quotation offered any one municipality. Both he and Lathrop supported O'Connor's amendment and it passed, 28 to 13.

The board voted today to participate in a federal secondary road project involving grading, draining and crushed stone surfacing of about nine miles of County Trunk E from Freedom to the Brown county line, next year. Under the secondary aid plan, the federal government will match county funds up to about $30,000, the board was told. An appropriation of about $28,000 as the county's share will be sought at the November session, it was stated. Improvement of the road is planned by the county highway committee in any event, and the federal funds, if obtained, would be a substantial help, F. R. Appleton, commissioner, said.

Claim Is Denied

A damage claim by an attorney for heirs of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Nichols, and their five children of Oshkosh, was denied on recommendation of the highway committee and district attorney. Mr. and Mrs. Nichols and their children were drowned in the Wolf river at Shiocton in March when their car ran off a bridge approach. The attorney wrote the board that the heirs claim the accident was due to a defect in the approach and in the bridge.

An appropriation of $1,000 to make alterations in the register of deeds office to provide additional space for storage of records was approved this morning.

The county highway committee was given authority to purchase an oil distributor, a roller and a 10 foot scraper. Several highway department recommendations on petitions were approved including provision for county aid toward construction of a bridge in the town of Black Creek at a total cost of $400, two in the town of Bovina at a cost of $1,600, and three in Greenville at a total cost of $2,500. The committee also recommended that black top surfacing of County Trunk N from Z to K in Combined Locks be paid from the oiling fund.

The report of the legislative committee relative to a number of bills pending in the state legislature, also was approved. The committee's recommendations included repeal of the law installment tax collection and passage of an old age pension provision permitting aid to aliens who have lived in the United States for 20 or more years.

At the close of this morning's session, the board adjourned until July 12.

Reservations Indicate

Busy Summer at Parks

With most of the spring cleanup work in the city parks completed, Harold Jerke, park superintendent, is planning to officially open them next week. Reservations for use of parks for outings and picnics are already being made with the superintendent, indicating that the parks will be much in demand. He advises persons or groups wishing to use the parks make reservations as soon as possible in order that the park will be available on the day wanted.

DRUM MAJOR

When the Appleton High school band marches Saturday in the district band tournament at Oshkosh it will be led by a drum major in a gleaming new uniform. Miss Theo Wassenberg, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Wassenberg, 158 W. Foster street, is shown here in the white, gold and blue costume which arrives about two weeks ago in preparation for the tournament. Its coat and trousers are white with gold trimming, and the cape is royal blue with a gold satin lining. The hat, in military style, is white with a blue top and a gold plume. The baton, incidentally, is also new. (Post-Crescent Photo)

WINS AWARD

Miss Marjorie Patterson is shown here wearing the orange and blue Girls' Athletic Association sweater which was awarded to her at the annual Appleton High school G. A. A. banquet Tuesday night. During the year she had collected 1,023 points in athletic activities, more than any other girl in the school.

She was captain of the hockey and intramural basketball teams and also won the high school shuffleboard championship. Marjorie, who is a senior at the high school, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Patterson, 1100 E. North street. (Post-Crescent Photo) view of many threatening letters received by our firm," Eckener asserted.

"In this unhappy moment, I find some comfort in the thought that a natural and explainable cause brought about destruction of the ship to which I contributed a life time of study, work and love."

"I always insisted airships are safe only with helium, ever since the English dirigible crashed in France five years ago."

He turned to the future: "I will go ahead with construction of dirigibles and send them around the globe."

Seek Helium Supply

"The new German Zeppelin (sister ship of the Hindenburg now under construction) will be filled with helium if we can get it from America," he declared.

(The United States, where development of lighter-than-air dirigible flight was virtually halted after the wrecks of the Akron and Macon, holds practically a monopoly on helium supplies.)

The commission to investigate the wrecking includes Dr. Eckener and Ludwig Duerr, constructor of the Hindenburg.

Duerr worked all night over the airship's construction chart, trying to discover a clue to the cause of the explosion. He did not believe a static current could have ignited the Hindenburg's hydrogen.

Chancellor Hitler learned of the disaster early today through a telephone call from the propaganda ministry in Berlin to his Berchtesgaden mountain retreat. He was too stunned for words at first and what ever comment he finally made was not disclosed by his entourage.

Message To Roosevelt

Upon receipt of a message of sympathy from President Roosevelt, Hitler wired back:

"I thank your excellency sincerely for the words of sympathy you express to me and the German people on the occasion of the disaster of which the airship Hindenburg was the victim."

German newspapers were under a rigid censorship in reporting the disaster. The government ordered all reports presented to the aviation ministry for approval before publication.

A government communique expressed Germany's and the world's distress at the tragedy but pointed out that a sister ship was under construction "to carry the German flag as ambassador from continent to continent," it said:

"With deep distress, the German people and the whole world will receive the news of the destruction of the proud airship Hindenburg, which heretofore achieved incomparable and unique successes in opening airways over the south and north Atlantic, now unfortunately is not spared from disaster such as afflicted airship navigation in other countries in recent decades."

"For years, service was maintained with South America without the slightest mishap."

Crossed 10 Times

The airship Hindenburg, which in March of last year with the Graf Zeppelin cruised over all parts of Germany in connection with the publicistic campaign, had already with punctuality and reliability crossed the ocean 10 times and on this trip for the first time was opening the north Atlantic airways to regular passenger traffic.

"Even after this disaster the courage of German air pioneers will not falter. Just as after the Echterdingen disaster in pre-war

Bill to Prohibit Married Women in Service Engrossed

See Possibility for Passage Of Fitzsimmons' Measure

(Post-Crescent Madison Bureau)

Madison—Assemblyman Maurice Fitzsimmons' fondest aim the prohibition of employment of married couples in the public service, may yet become a reality, it was indicated yesterday when the Fond du Lac member's now famous, and aging bill, was engrossed by a healthy vote in the state assembly.

It is Fitzsimmons' contention, and he presents statistics to support his argument, that too many husbands and wives are employed by the state of Wisconsin and its political subdivisions. Accordingly Mr. Fitzsimmons this session for the third time introduced his measure to bar all married persons with husbands or wives in the public service and earning more than $2,000, plus $250 for each dependent child, from employment in the state government, in any of its governmental subdivisions.

Many in Service

According to Fitzsimmons, almost 800 married couples are at present in the state service, the figures coming from the investigation of the legislative nepotism committee, created in 1935 at the instigation of the Fond du Lac assemblyman. And this total, he reminded the assembly yesterday, does not include the thousands of married persons in the public schools.

Abolition of this practice of dual employment, he argued, would create thousands of new jobs throughout the state. Industry too, he said, "is waking up to this problem and helping to share the jobs so that we won't have a dole system in the future."

Has Support

Fitzsimmons declared that he has the majority of Wisconsin people supporting him in his bill and adding that youth coming out of the high schools and the state's unemployed will watch legislators' votes on his bill to create more jobs. He said that 82 per cent of Wisconsin voters, as determined in a well known national poll, favored prohibition of dual employment.

The assembly's only woman member, Mrs. Mary Kryszak, (D), Milwaukee, protested mildly against "these women in the capitol are employed under civil service, aren't they?" "The legislature has the power to amend the civil service laws in any way it sees fit," Fitzsimmons replied.

The author charged that those "in the higher brackets" in capitol offices, who would be affected by his bill, have been lobbying against it in recent weeks.

days when the whole German nation rallied behind Count Zeppelin, so today this inheritance will not be abandoned."

(This referred to an early setback in the efforts of Count Ferdinand von Zeppelin to develop rigid airships.)

Germany will "proceed on the same path, unshaken," the communique added.

Dr. Eckener declared he would insist to the utmost of his power that "this must be an end to the use of hydrogen—we must use helium."

As for chance of sabotage, he said:

"I should say that if this disaster was caused by sabotage, only the firing of a burning bullet into the bags from a distance could have accomplished it. That seems highly unlikely."

Three Other Possibilities

He outlined three other possible causes of the explosion "from this distance and on the bases of incomplete information."

"1—When the ship is lowered, some hydrogen usually is released. This free hydrogen in the air might have been sufficiently concentrated to be ignited by lightning or a spark. It would not necessarily have to be a great flash of lightning; perhaps it wasn't seen by the observers."

"2—When landing the water ballast is released from the tanks. A stream of water, connecting with the earth, might have served as an electrical conductor to bring a spark up from the ground. It is possible an electric charge, so to speak, stabbed the Hindenburg from the earth."

"3—Someone abroad may have made a fire; a spark, possibly from a cigarette lighter. I regard this also as unlikely, for the conduct of the passengers and crew is watched carefully."

The April figure brought the 1937 total to 123, an advance of 12 over the first four months of 1936. Applications were made by 24 couples in January, 21 in February and 30 in March.

Jerry, 4-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilmer Zimmerman, 509 W. Seymour street, suffered fractures of both legs in a traffic accident on S. Memorial drive about 10:15 this morning in which an automobile driven by Miss Harriet Vivian, Island Park, Ill., was involved, according to police.

The youngster was attempting to walk across the street when the accident occurred. He was taken to St. Elizabeth hospital. Miss Vivian, police said, was accompanied by Charles J. Cook, Highland Park, Ill.

Driver Pays $10 for

Having Faulty Brakes

Theodore Moder, Dale, was fined $10 and costs in municipal court Thursday afternoon when he pleaded guilty of operating an automobile with inadequate brakes. He was arrested in Hortonville by county police.

Walter Young was fined $5 and costs for operating a contract car without a state permit. He was arrested in the village of Black Creek Thursday by a public service commission inspector.

FINED $10 AND COSTS

Arthur Froelich, 23, 1131 W. Winnebago street, pleaded guilty of drunkenness when he appeared in municipal court this morning and was fined $10 and costs. He was arrested Thursday afternoon by Appleton police.

It Is Said--

That many cottage owners along Lake Winnebago are faced with the job of remaking their shore lines this summer. The raise in the level of the lake during the past few weeks and the strong wind of last week washed out "buffers" ruining homemade shore lines in a number of places. Activity along the lake front has increased this week with many owners starting preparations for their summer stay at the lake.

Identify Man as One Who Held Up Drug Store Here

Albert Herman, 53, Denies Robbery Charge, in Oshkosh Court

Albert Herman, 53, Princeton, held at Oshkosh on a charge of robbery while armed and assault with intent to rob, was identified by Harvey Schlitz, Appleton, late Thursday, as the man who held up the Schlitz Brothers Drug store at 601 W. College avenue, Tuesday night. The bandit who held up the Schlitz store obtained between $50 and $55 in currency.

Herman pleaded not guilty when arraigned before Municipal Judge Henry P. Hughes at Oshkosh Thursday afternoon but was bound over for trial May 13 following preliminary examination this morning.

60 Boys Attend Discussion Group Meets at Y. M. C. A.

Consider Problems Confronting Youths of High School Age

Sixty Appleton youths of high school age attended the two discussion groups on boys' problems at the Y. M. C. A. Wednesday night. Dr. Harry F. Lewis, dean at the Institute of Paper Chemistry, and Mrs. Harriet Fritzsche, dean of girls at Oshkosh High school were in charge of the sessions.

"Our Girl Friends" was the topic considered by Mrs. Fritzsche in her discussion group and boys were asked to write questions which they would like discussed.

Among the questions submitted and later discussed were: Why do you like or dislike certain girls you know? What do you want, a pal or a clinging vine? How can you keep conversation going and on what subject? What can you say to start a good conversation with a girl? What about your girl smoking? What should you do if you don't smoke and a girl offers you a cigarette?

List More Questions

Should you go with a number of girls in order to know them or should you go steady with one girl? Should the parents sit up and wait for the girl to come home from a date? How late should a fellow and a girl stay out? How should you approach a girl you do not know but would like to know? How do you get acquainted with a girl when you first meet? What points do girls like in boys?

Dr. Lewis led a discussion on "Fundamentals in Choosing a Vocation" and told the boys that an employer in engaging a new man always looks for character traits, good habits, personality, ability to get along with others, courtesy, education, interest in the job and an ability to work.

"Boys seeking jobs must always have an interest in the job, adequate preparation and the will to complete the work despite obstacles. First impressions count a great deal," Dr. Lewis said.

Need Education

Because a high school education and knowledge gained while in school are the basis for good work in later life, Dr. Lewis urged the boys to take an interest in extracurricular activities in order to build a better foundation for their life's work.

Higher education also was discussed by Dr. Lewis and he pointed out that there is always a place for a good man in an overcrowded profession.

'PERSONAL LIBERTY'

Vienna—(U)—Austria is determined to give its citizens more personal liberty, Chancellor Kurt von Schuschnigg is telling workmen at a succession of patriotic rallies. But the chancellor does not hint in what directions personal liberty will be extended, or when.

Freedom of conduct and thought, he indicates, are refinements of organized society to be taken into account when fundamentals are established.

Chancellor Schuschnigg holds that the interests of labor will be served by the new Christian Guild state better than they were ever served by socialist theorists.

Women Made Invisible

The invisible man is now a reality instead of a fictional character, according to an Italian scientist who claims to have perfected a ray which makes people fade from sight. In Rome he described an experiment in which the ray was directed at two women engaged in conversation. Gradually they faded and disappeared, but their conversation continued to be audible. The effect is obtained by means of an electro-optical combination with the emanation of special electric rays similar to X-rays.

Baseball Leagues Will Try Again Sunday Afternoon

Northern State,
Lakes Teams to Play First GamesMost of Last Week's Games
Postponed Because Of Grounds

KING Baseball, who got off to a rather wet and shaky start last week, will try again Sunday in the various sections of the Fox and Wolf river valleys, and in two leagues will make his debut. Last week an average of only two games per league was played because of wet grounds.

The principal league to get started Sunday will be the Northern State league which finds itself with seven teams following DePere's decision to quit the circuit. DePere gave as its reason lack of finances but the real reason probably is the battle with Green Bay over players.

Only one State league game is booked in this section, Green Bay at Little Chute. Kaukauna hits the highways to Manitowish while Oshkosh will entertain Kimberly. Two Rivers draws a bye as result of DePere's action.

The other league getting started is the Lakes circuit. Seymour is the entry from this section and will show at Oconto Falls. The Seymour club has added Al Bowers of Kaukauna to its hurling staff and with several other Kaukauna and a couple Little Chute players in the lineup hopes for a top season.

Outagamie County league opened its season last Sunday with a single game, Black Creek and Greenville. Grange on the Merchants' diamond. The Grangers copped but will run into a lot of competition when they invade Shiocton Sunday where the villagers have taken their baseball seriously and gathered together a strong team with Smokey Lathrop of New London as the hurler.

Date At Greenville.
Dale, champion last season, will play at Greenville Merchants and is booked to start the season with a win. In the other game Hortonville, which last year won the second round title, will invade Black Creek and expects a victory.

In the Eastern Wisconsin league Hilbert will play its second game away from home meeting Kiel at Kiel. Chilton goes to New Holstein. Cleveland to Marytown and Mt. Calvary to Stockbridge.

Up in the Pigeon River Valley league Marion will show at Synco, Embarras at Maple Valley and Big Falls at Clintonville.

The Northern Valley league will show Appleton at Green Bay against the Thomas Drugs. Oshkosh at Menasha. Eagles diamond and Neenah at Grand Chute.

Scheduled for Wednesday,
May 12

Menasha.—Featured on the marcard to be presented Wednesday, May 12, at the S. A. Cook armory, Menasha, will be Rowdy Pocan, Kimberly, and Buzz Reynolds, Salt Lake City, Utah.

Both gruntners weigh in at about 165 pounds and are about evenly matched in knowledge of the game. The fight will go two out of three falls for a one hour limit.

The semi-windup will show Dave Reynolds, a brother of Buzz's, and Art Perkins, Muscatine, Iowa, who will also go two out of three falls for a one hour limit. The fighters weigh in at 170 pounds each.

In the preliminary, Alex Kaffner, Chicago Negro, will exchange holds with Emil Barbola, Berlin. The pair will weigh in at about 180 pounds. The fight will go one fall for a 30 minute limit.

Tickets are on sale at usual places.

Detroit Pounds
Yankees and Ties
For First PlaceWhite Sox Continue to Lose and Cubs Continue to Win

BY SID FEDER

Associated Press Sports Writer
FOR a bunch of cripples who were supposed to need wheel chairs and stretchers to get around the circuit, those Chicago Cubs are showing a lot of health.

In spite of a casualty list that makes Wrigley Field resemble a base hospital, the Cubs are traveling at the fastest pace in the National league, have climbed from sixth place to a tie for third in the last week, and are showing no signs of letting up.

When Pitcher Larry French and Second Baseman Billy Herman went on the hospital list with Tex Carleton, Curt Davis and Gabby Hartnett last week, the "experts" figured it was curtains for the Cubs.

Since then, the Cubs have won six of seven starts, they've averaged close to nine runs and 13 hits a game, and have held the enemy to less than four scores per nine-innings.

Their surge wound up in third place yesterday when rain cut their tilt with the Phillies to five innings, with the Cubs winning 1-0 for their sixth straight triumph. Bill Lee, going the route for the second in a week, muffled the Phils with one lone hit.

Tigers Top Yanks
The big change in standings for the day came in the American league, where the Tigers topped the Yankees 12-6 and the Red Sox nosed out the Browns 2-1 to throw the lead into a three-way tie. Hank Greenberg, with a homer, double and triple led the drive against Yankee pitching at Detroit, while Foisie Marcum hurled his third straight win to give Boston its win and a share in the loop pace.

For the first time this season, the Cincinnati Reds showed a winning streak of two by blanking the Giants 4-0 behind Lefty Lee Grissom's four straight by a seven-run rally in the fifth inning for a 9-5 victory. The Cubs and Boston Bees were rained out.

Connie Mack's upsetting Athletics topped the Chicago White Sox for the second day running, 3-1. Roy Weatherly's homer with a mate on base in the eighth gave the Cleveland Indians a 4-2 win over the Washington Senators.

Golf Clubs Plan Tournaments
With New Frills, Gadgets

BUTTE DES MORTS and River-view golfers will have their first weekend of tournaments Saturday and Sunday and will find that the sport has been pepped up a bit and made a little more interesting.

For instance, at Riverview Jake Mathews, pro, has taken a tip from the Kentucky derby to be run tomorrow, and as golfers go out they'll be given an opportunity to take the name of a nag whose name is or was connected with the derby. The golfer will be called the jockey and when the scores are posted they'll show that War Admiral, ridden by Joe Blank, won with a 90 gross net and a net 72, or something like that. There will be no entry fee.

Riverview also is sponsoring a "Ringer" tournament in which golfers will post their best score for each hole over the year with prizes being awarded at the end of the season. The tournament starts Saturday and closes on Labor day. It also is free.

The Riverview sports committee met recently and discussed plans for the season. It considered, besides weekly tournaments, a twilight league but took no action. Members of the committee are A. R. Ellis, chairman, H. Rothchild, Dr. J. L. Benton, Guy B. McCord and Harold Sperka.

At B. D. M. Too

Everett Leonard at Butte des Morts also has a gag for Saturday's play. He'll have a punch board at the pro shop and as the players go out they'll punch the name of a girl, wife, a sister, sweetheart or maybe just any name, and the number they draw will be their handicap for the day.

At the end of the day's play Leonard will pull the tag off old Colonel Bogey and the player with the score that turns up will win the blind bogey prize for the day.

Sunday morning Leonard is planning to have a mixed 4-ball blind partner tournament and in the afternoon there will be a man and a wife tournament.

ATLAS MILL and the Post-Crescent-Tuttle Press softball teams hooked up in a pretty fair duel last evening at Roosevelt school in the American league, for seven innings. Then things started going haywire as the hurlers began to fire and when the firing died down at the end of the ninth frame the Post-Tuttle crew had won a 12 to 6 victory. The winners scored 11 runs in the last two frames and the Atlas 5 in the last of the ninth. Eddie Mitchell worked for the Post-Tuttle team and walked three with his mates err 6 times. Most of the hits off Klein came in the last couple innings when a charley horse got the best of him.

Gene Mullens hit a triple for Atlas while W. Strutz got two for the Post-Tuttle. Norman LaMar and Arnie Kelly doubled for the winners and L. and E. Getchow for the losers. Orville Strutz of the winners also figured in the hitting with four safeties in five tries.

Atlas scored in the second when Mullen tripled and Erv Getchow doubled. The Post-Tuttle got the run back in the fourth when Orv Strutz singled, stole second and scored on Bob Lesselyoung's double to left.

In the eighth frame Klein started to weaken and the Post-Tuttle jumped on him for four runs. They came on a walk, four hits and an Atlas error. In the ninth seven more markers were chased across the rubber. Eddie Mitchell made the first and last Post-Tuttle out in the frame.

Atlas staged a scoring spree in its half of the ninth with five runs on five hits, a walk and three miscues. The box score:

DePere Baseball
Team Fails to Join
Northern State Loop

DePere—The DePere Dynamiters have withdrawn from the newly-formed Northern State League, it was learned from club officials here Wednesday. Lack of financial support was given as the principal reason for the move, although several other factors contributed to the decision.

The Dynamiters, who were to have opened the Northern season here Sunday against the Two Rivers club, 1936 champions, will seek a spot in some nearby league, preferably the Eastern Wisconsin circuit. It was disclosed by co-managers Frank Lockmer and Fred Dillon.

Ambers Favored
Over CanzonieriFormer Champion to Take
Last Fling at Lightweight Title Tonight

By Drew Middleton

New York.—(AP)—Battle-scarred and weary, Tony Canzonieri will bring his ancient armament into the Madison Square Garden ring tonight for one last fling with destiny and Lou Ambers' lightweight title.

If he wins, Tony will defend the title he has held twice. If he loses, a great fighter ends his career and goes back to his Marlboro farm and life among the cows and chickens.

Ambers, young, fast, and confident, is a 12 to 5 favorite over the man he once served as sparring partner. He lost to Tony in their first bout and then whipped him for the title. The wise ones say he will be a 3 to 1 choice by the time the fighters enter the ring for the 15-round bout.

Tony hangs his hope of victory on punching power and spirit. His manager, Sammy Goldman, argues that one punch flush on the button will drain the speed from Ambers' nimble legs and let Tony come in for the kill.

The feeling persists that it will be Ambers' fight. Never a knock-out hitter, Lou substitutes quantity for quality and he can pepper his opponent with the speed and facility of a cooper going around a barrel. Eventually the barrage takes its toll and his opponent folds.

Crown King of 3-Year-Olds in Kentucky Derby

Thousands of Turf Followers Hurry to Louisville For Annual Event

BY ORLO ROBERTSON
LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—While thousands of turf followers from all parts of America mingled with the "hardboots" of old Kentucky today on gaily decorated streets, where only a few months ago flood water stood several feet deep, nearly a score of the nation's equine royalty awaited the coronation of the Kentucky Derby winner. King of the three-year-olds, the colt, about 4½ to 5 m. (central standard time) tomorrow Starter Bill Hamilton will release the barrier, yell "come on" and the 63rd running of the country's most famous horse race will be underway to the accompaniment of the cheers of 65,000 spectators.

The historic race, climaxing turf arguments that started months ago, marks the return of the derby to all the glamour and much of the prosperity it enjoyed in pre-depression years. The value of the race has been restored to $50,000 after being twice sliced in depression years, to $30,000. More than $150,000 was paid through the mutual windows for the greatest play since the days of Rich Count and Galant Fox.

7 Horses Rate
The added impetus of a wide open race, with at least seven horses rating consideration, figures to draw the largest crowd in derby history through the turnstiles of historic Downs. Officials have prepared for a record attendance by increasing the seating capacity to 30,000. Many others will strive for standing room on the lawn, in the infield or on the backstretch where Col. Matt Winn, impresario of the race, saw Aristides win the first derby in 1875.

The consensus of the experts is that the winner will come from either Mrs. Ethel V. Marx's Milky Way stable or Samuel Riddle's barn, with the latter sending out the favorite in the diminutive War Admiral, a son of Man O' War.

War Admiral will enter the race the only unbeaten horse in the post at odds close to 5 to 1. Two Have Shown Class
In meeting Mrs. Marx's Reaping Reward and Military, however, War Admiral will be asked to match strides with one horse seasoned by winter racing and another that showed his class as a two-year-old. Military, rated second to J. W. Patrick's Deller in the Derby "trial" earlier this week. The entry was the second choice at 5 to 2.

While War Admiral and Mrs. Marx's entry are expected to battle it out in the mutuels, there should be plenty of support for Deller, the Wheatley stable's melodist. Heavily from the Waggon brothers' Texas-owned Thine Dixie stable, Maxwell Howard's Sceneshifter. Ace of the Pair trained by Earl Sande, and J. H. Louchheim's Pearl Sande, the erstwhile favorite.

Heavily, Pompoon and Sceneshifter forged into the picture with brilliant workouts. Pompoon worked himself back into consideration with an excellent race and an eighth trial over a muddy course.

Tuesday—Appleton Merchants 12, Lutz 2.

Thursday—Menasha 5, Lutz 1.
Friday—Ponds versus Harrison.

MENASHA MERCHANT Softball team, one of the new entries in American City League at Pierce park, came to town last evening and handed the Lutz Coolers a 5 to 1 trimming. And as the Lutz lineup looks rather strong the city leaguers are beginning to wonder what kind of an outfit they admitted to their family circle.

Pavletzki tossed for the winners and gave up only three hits, fanned three and walked five while his mates turned in an errorless game for him. Swamp tossed for the Lutz team and allowed seven hits, fanned four and walked five as his mates squared twice.

The Lutz squad turned in the first double play this season when, with men on first and second, Resch hit a liner to Hurley who caught it and threw to Frutts to double Pavletzki on second. Howe was the fielding star for Menasha at first base with nine putouts.

Menasha scored a run in the second and two in the third with the Lutz counting their one and only run in the fourth. The Menashans then tallied again in the sixth and added their final run in the seventh.

A dancing party for high school students, their parents and friends will be held tonight in the high school gymnasium where prom decorations are still intact. A local orchestra will play. Proceeds will be used to purchase football equipment for the high school team.

The Book Review club will hold its meeting at the Finney library Monday evening.

Mrs. J. H. Stem, Mrs. Howard Bovee and Mrs. R. E. Knister were hostesses to public school teachers Wednesday evening at the former's home on N. Main street. A 6:30 dinner was followed by five tables of bridge. High honors at each table went to the Misses Helen Riden, Charley Lenegar, for 36 Years Miller of Glenmore Distilleries, says:

"No matter how much we have to pay—we never buy anything but selected grains"

"I've been handling grain for Glenmore for 36 years—thousands of carloads of fine, selected quality yellow corn, rye and barley. No matter how high prices went, we never let down the quality to save money."

Here's proof of Glenmore's quality—Glenmore was one of seven distilleries permitted by the government to make medicinal whiskey during Prohibition. Glenmore's Key Men total more than five centuries of continuous whiskey making experience.

That's one reason why Mint Springs Kentucky Straight Bourbon Whiskey is so good. And it's always the same—for we never permit any but our own distillation to be put into Mint Springs bottles—as the label proves.

Commission and Board End Dispute Over Chief's Pay

Kimberly — Fire Chief Alex Malcom has been assured a $250 monthly raise in salary, and the village board and police and fire commission have reached an unofficial armistice.

The board poured oil on troubled waters this week by reversing itself on an earlier decision, prompted by a communication from the commission.

Pointing with alarm to skyrocketing wages and salaries, President Lang, addressing an adjourned meeting of the board April 16, urged the trustees to go easy in dealing with part-time positions, such as fire chief, electrical inspector and others where no additional duties are involved. President Lang was absent at this week's meeting and Joseph Kuborn presided.

The board at its meeting April 16 failed to act on the commission's recommendation, referring the question back to the latter body. Shortly thereafter Chief Malcom offered his resignation to the commission. A group of citizens signed a petition, urging the commission to refuse to accept the resignation.

Five members of the police and fire commission also offered their resignations and several members of the fire department gave their verbal resignations.

So when the village board met this week several trustees admitted that mistakes had been made. Others, however, saw themselves forced "to walk the plank." A split vote results but the "eyes" had it. Harmony was restored.

Trustee Adolph Courchane was appointed acting supervisor on the county board in absence of Supervisor Lang.

The annual spring order for gravel, street oil, and cut backs and county equipment for several turn-over street jobs in the village was referred to the street and bridge committee for supervision.

Ferne Schoenfeld, Leola Knudson, Doris Johnson and Ellen Patterson, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Korb and Miss Lena Kroll entertained relatives at dinner Wednesday evening at the former's home on Modoc street. The guests included Mr. and Mrs. Henry Korb and family, Mr. and Mrs. Karl Korb, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Volkman and son Richard all of this city.

Royal Neighbors met Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. Henry Barker, Wausau street. After the business session, bunco was played and a lunch served. Prizes at the games were won by Mrs. W. H. Schmidt, Mrs. Claudia Whaley and Mrs. Rudolph Rulsek.

Urges Selective Sterilization to Prevent Insanity

Government Should Supervise Program, Asylum Physician Says

New London—Selective sterilization under government supervision is the one effective means to remove and prevent the increase of insane and degeneracy in the United States, Dr. E. H. Jones, physician at the Waupaca county asylum at Weyauwega, declared in a talk before the Lutheran men's club at the church here last evening. He urged that service clubs, civic organizations and other public spirited groups support the formation of laws to that effect.

Tracing the causes of insanity, Dr. Jones blamed heredity for the greater number of cases, pointing out several extreme instances as in the case of the famous Jutes family. Sexual vice and alcohol are other causes, he said.

Sterilization of all defective persons would prevent the procreation of undesirable progeny, he said. Procreation is a national service only when it produces useful citizens, he declared. While population has increased 40 per cent in the past 30 years the number of degenerates in the state of Wisconsin has increased 154 per cent, he pointed out.

Ratio Increases
The ratio of the increase in mental deficiency to the increase in population in the United States has increased three times in the past 30 years, according to the speaker. Eighty million are admitted to institutions annually, with nine and a half million in institutions now costing American taxpayers more than one billion dollars a year, were a few statistics given. Besides this huge economic loss, crime due to hereditary degeneracy costs the nation another 13 billion annually, he said.

Procreation of the unfit cannot be checked by the physician, or the institutions, but by sterilization laws, he declared.

Cities Growth
Speaking of the asylum at Weyauwega, Dr. Jones pointed out that the institution has grown from a $40,000 establishment, with 16 patients to a $339,000 business farm with over 200 patients, since it was erected in 1902. It was originally built to accommodate 125 patients but an additional expenditure of $39,000 later increased the capacity to more than 180.

The doctor stressed the difficulties of caring for several hundred helpless people but emphasized they had the best of care with plenty of good food and clothing, games, amusements and radio. Under the capable management of D. C. Hayward and his wife the large farm has earned an enviable reputation for the quality of its farm products. The production of such crops occupies most of the inmates, Jones said.

He invited his listeners to visit the farm and study its operation first-hand. Visiting days are Wednesdays and Fridays from 1 to 4 o'clock in the afternoon.

Discusses Treatment
The asylum physician also dwelt on the first treatment of insane cases in early times when persons so afflicted were considered possessed by spirits, either good or evil. The Greeks showed intelligent treatment of the insane but later they were cruelly treated and driven away from the cities, he said.

The first home for the insane in London continued until 1770 as a show place where crowds were entertained by fighting madmen and similar inhuman displays of the inmates. It wasn't until after 1800 that the humane system of today took hold and began its remarkable progress.

Over 45 men and their wives were present at the annual ladies' fight of the club last evening. Dawnstein Fehrmann and Barbara Meinhardt entertained with tap dances, cards were played and a lunch was served. Otto Fehrmann, program chairman, was in charge.

Reduce Fines to $1 For 11 Truck Drivers

New London—Fines of 11 New London milk haulers who paid $5 and costs before Police Justice F. A. Archibald on April 15 for operating without a commercial carrier permit were reduced by the court yesterday to the minimum of $1 and costs. Each hauler received a refund of $4.

On protest of the farmers, intervention by the court disclosed that haulers were accustomed to make application for the permit with the assistance of the commissioner on his first call and that there was no intent to avoid payment. The men involved were Alton Hutchison, Lyle Reed, Ed Dobberstein, Gerhard Rumsch, Ed Nolan, Fred Larsen, Andy Peterson, Paul Wenz, Clem Winkler, August Garcke and Matt Gorman.

John Viel Is Named As Park Caretaker

New London—John Viel, former ward sideman, has been appointed caretaker of the two city parks by the municipal public properties committee to fill the vacancy left by the recent death of Bert Schaller, former caretaker. The attendant will be responsible for the upkeep of Franklin Square on E. Beacon avenue and Taff's park on North Water street. He began his duties two weeks ago.

New London Track Team To Meet Kaukauna Squad

New London—New London high school track men will go to Kaukauna for a 2-section dual meet tomorrow afternoon, Coach D. N. Stancavage announced yesterday. Arrangements have been made to run a junior or reserve meet in conjunction with the varsity event. The Red and White tracksters will be divided into two groups to compete with similar Kaukauna groups but the exact lineup was undetermined by Coach Stancavage yesterday.

Junior Class Presents Plan Before High Pupils

New London—The junior class 1-act play, "A Half Hour of Reformation," was presented during the weekly assembly program in the auditorium at Washington High school yesterday afternoon. The three characters in the play were John Kestle as Clem, Tennessee hill-billy, Anita Brault as his wife and Leslie Freeman as the mountain doctor. The scene of the comedy was the family cabin in the hills. Ruth Hanson, a member of the Thespian group, directed the play.

Try-outs are being held for the senior class 1-act play which will be presented by Harold Herres, another Thespian member. The annual senior 3-act play, "Gun Shy," under the direction of H. H. Brockhaus, dramatics coach, will be presented at the school next Friday, May 14.

City Dog Pound Is Established

Stray Canines Will Be Held Five Days Before Being Executed

New London—An official city dog pound was established in New London yesterday with the completion of a 10 by 12 foot wooden house at the rear of the city sheds along the Wolf river. Constructed entirely of heavy planking by street department employees, there are accommodations for 10 dogs with no possibility of their digging their way out as was experienced in past ventures with an earth floor.

An air-tight chamber for execution by carbon-monoxide gas is included in the home for wayward canines. While the city has no official dog catcher, Chief of Police Harry D. Macklin has warned that all stray dogs will be picked up and confined to the pound for five days, when they will be disposed of unless called for before that time. Persons bothered with stray dogs may have them taken to the pound.

Wisconsin statutes require all dogs to be tied during the summer months after May 1.

COMMISSION MEETS

Neenah—Members of the Twin City Sewage commission will hold a regular meeting at 4 o'clock this afternoon at the Bank of Menasha. Business concerning the construction of the new sewage disposal plant will be discussed and bills will be allowed.

Urge Parents to Help in Summer Health Round-Up

Neenah—The Neenah-Menasha Visiting Nurse association which maintains and sponsors monthly child health centers in the Twin Cities has asked the cooperation of all parents in making a summer health round-up, beginning this week, in order that the group of children who enter the first grade next fall will be 100 per cent free of physical defects.

The publicity committee of the Twin City Visiting Nurse association headed by Mrs. E. E. Thiekens, 300 Park street, stated today that "very simple measures beginning in early infancy, may be all that is required to make the difference between a pale, listless, peevish youngster or a rosy checked child full of energy and good nature. A well child is a happy one. The benefits of the child health centers have been regular examination to determine if the child's feeding and care are adjusted to his individual needs and the early recognition of defects of any nature and, if possible, the early correction. The emphasis in child health programs this year," said Mrs. Thiekens, "is being placed on evaluation of child health activities in each local community and upon family needs. Winnebago county has an infant mortality rate of 48.9 (based on 1,000 live births) while the entire state infant mortality is only 46, which proves conclusively that there is much work to be done. It is only with the 100 per cent cooperation of parents, health center groups and physicians that this rate can be lowered."

A. V. Club Makes Plans for Annual Spring Banquet

Neenah—Miss Alice Meyer, president of the Y. W. C. A.-sponsored club, the A. V.'s is general chairman of the spring banquet which the club is planning for all household employees in the Twin City. Although no definite date has been set, the banquet is to be held early in June at the Y.

Mamie Thompson and Miss Meyer are in charge of invitations and Martha Lichtus and Alice Herning are in charge of food.

The club which meets each Tuesday evening at the Y, plans to spend its meeting hours making favors for the banquet. Tentative plans are to have a colonial banquet with colonial ladies featuring the place cards and decorations.

Speaker Lists Essentials For Happiness Between Mothers and Daughters

Menasha—Declaring that understanding, comradeship, innate respect and devotion were the four essentials of a happy relationship between mothers and daughters, Mrs. Robert K. Bell, Appleton, asked the 150 mothers and daughters attending the First Congregational church banquet last evening "What makes a home?" and answered her own question by quoting five lines of verse:

"A Man, a Woman, and a Child;
Their love, warm as the gold
Along the floor; a table and a lamp
For light
And smooth white beds at night—
Only the old, sweet fundamental things."

Mrs. Bell contended that the foundation of sympathetic understanding between mother and daughter lies back in the very early childhood and its first characteristic must be a feeling of security, the feeling that comes because there is love and understanding in the home, the very heart and soul of future relationships.

Need Comradeship
"There must be comradeship in which both mother and daughter may have a freedom of speech," said Mrs. Bell. "There must be respect for each other, not mother and daughter but as individuals and there must be a devotion out of which will come inspiration from the daughter to the mother to stay young, to keep her eyes clear and focused on a goal. The mother must be an inspiration to the daughter."

A miniature maypole was the center piece at the speakers' table at the banquet and May baskets filled with wild flowers were favors for the special guests. Lavender and yellow streamers decorated the other tables with center pieces of marsh marigolds and wild violets.

Miss Lucy Northrup was the toastmistress and those who appeared on the program were Miss Lucille Schwartz, Mrs. R. H. Falkner, Mrs. E. H. Schultz, Miss Charline Blomstrom and Mrs. H. B. Sutton who led the group singing. Mrs. Schultz and Mrs. W. A. Jacobs were accompanists.

$42,876 Voted by Menasha Council For High School

Board Will Apply for Additional Grant of $51,444

Menasha — Aldermen last night voted to furnish $42,876 to be used for the purchase of equipment for the new Menasha High school providing the board of education is successful in its application for a federal grant of $51,444. School commissioners informed the council at the meeting last night at city hall that the board needed $114,320 to equip the new building.

Of this amount, the board said, it had $20,000 and expected to secure the $51,444 from federal funds. It was pointed out that all of the equipment in the old school building had been destroyed by fire. The council's action followed an explanation of the law on bonded indebtedness by the city attorney.

The original application for a federal grant, explained Alderman George Weisgerber, was made a year before the old school burned and officials at that time had expected to use the old equipment. With prices of materials and wages rising, it became necessary to seek additional money to complete the building.

Strike Mediation Board Is Planned By Oshkosh Mayor

Hopes to be Able to Arbitrate Between 2,000 Strikers and Firms

(Post-Crescent Oshkosh Bureau) Oshkosh—Mayor C. A. Wiechering in a surprise move, Thursday, announced he had nearly completed plans to form an Oshkosh Mediation board of either three or five members pledged to use every possible means to arbitrate the wood-working strike here which has closed eight factories and forced nearly 2,000 workers to cease work.

The strike here was called by unions affiliated with the A. F. of L. Carpenters and Joiners union.

Naming three outstanding citizens of this community, Mayor Wiechering said he had been quietly working on the plan for several days and stated he had not yet contacted them to assure their acceptance.

He said he planned to invite the Rev. Fr. Aloys Bastian of St. Vincent's church; the Rev. Joseph Barnett, Trinity Episcopal church, and Edward J. Dempsey, to serve on the board.

Sees Criticism
"I realize that I will be the subject of criticism for entrance into the strike picture," he said. "Certain union officials have intimated they prefer a hands-off attitude on the part of the city, and several officials of closed plants have said the same thing."

"However, I have a duty as mayor of Oshkosh to every citizen of Oshkosh. From my experience as a member of the unions for many years I know how costly a long-drawn-out strike can be. Not only to the companies closed by strike, but to the families of the strikers, the merchants of Oshkosh and to the city treasury."

The mayor said he had applied to the Wisconsin Mediation board and had been given some encouragement, but was informed they were reluctant to accept unless both parties to a strike were ready to arbitrate. He stated he felt confident his board would bring this about.

Council Votes to Transfer Funds To Cancel Deficit

Overdraft in Park and Recreation Budget Is Wiped Out at Menasha

Menasha—Transfer of $6,800 from the contingent to the park and recreation fund was approved by the city council last night to wipe out an overdraft of that amount. The action was taken at an adjourned meeting of the city council at city hall.

A meeting with the park board was called after Alderman C. J. Oberweiser called attention of the council to the finance report showing that the park and recreation board had only $1,100 left to operate on until April 1, 1938.

Peter Borenz, a member of the board, explained that although $12,535 had been set up in the budget for the operation of the park and recreation board, the money was not actually spent. He said the overdraft from last year had been deducted and that $2,600 had been spent to purchase property, leaving the board with only half of its original budget.

Never Repaid
It had been decided previously, he said, at a meeting of the mayor, finance committee and board that $4,500 he borrowed from the park board to be paid back later. This was not done, he said.

Another member of the board, James Whalen, said that the park board had applied for $17,000 in their 1937 budget and that the money allotted was not sufficient to operate and take care of improvements planned. He said that $1,500 had been set up to improve the fifth ward park and that the amount was not sufficient to pay salaries.

Alderman Oberweiser stated that if the city could afford $17,000 for park purposes, it would gladly pay but that the municipal government must be run on an economical basis and that the money was not available. He added that the council was at fault when it paid the bills presented by the board without investigating and providing for adequate funds.

Could Get By
Urban Remmel, another member of the board, said that if the board could have started the year with the amount in its budget without deduction of the last year's overdraft, the board could get by. Mr. Borenz further explained that the board had figured on the total amount of the budget and could not operate on half that amount. Concession earnings at the Memorial building which now are available totaled $2,600 and would be turned over to the fund, he said.

Other details concerning the problem were discussed, until Alderman Earl Sauter said that he believed that the park board should be put on the spot and moved that the overdraft be transferred to the park fund. The vote was unanimous.

Urban Remmel, relief director, was called upon to explain several items in the April poor report which was laid aside at Tuesday's meeting. A difference of $272 per case between Neenah and Menasha was explained when Mr. Remmel called the attention of the council to the fact that Neenah provided housing facilities for about 20 out of 50 relief families, cutting down on rent, light and fuel expenses.

Object to Bills
Councilmen also objected to several bills paid to doctors when the city employs a physician for indigent persons. Mr. Remmel said that the money was paid out to doctors who were called in for consultations which were permitted by the board of health. After the discussion, aldermen voted to pay the bills.

When aldermen questioned the director on the relief situation in Menasha, he said that cost of poor relief should be down to $1,500 in May. He said that only 10 or 12 workable men were left on relief and that no men would be available this summer for WPA projects.

On motion of Alderman John Eickrich, councilmen voted to have 500 maps of the city of Menasha printed. The map has been revised by city engineers and a plate has been made. The cost of the maps will be $80.

A motion was passed to allow the old high school property on Racine street to be used for parking space Sunday, May 16, when the Holy Cities. About 10,000 are expected here that day. Aldermen al-

EVE'S ORCHARD

He said without further preface, "Eve, here's something I want you to do for me."

"Your little nephew—is it?—will be out as soon as he is dressed," said the young doctor later, coming out.

Henry and I thought the life outdoors, less strain and a lot of milk, would fix him. He was better for a while, but he's been complaining of a face-ache lately. I want you to take him into town to the dentist and the doctor. I'll foot the bills, of course.

"Of course not!"

She would have time for shopping and a beauty parlor before Denny was free. Grand!

Judge's parents were amiably amused at the idea, but didn't object.

"Be sure to have gold fillings," the doctor said. "I'll have them put in for you. Tell them for me, or send them by mail, and let me tell them, that if they don't stop discussing poverty and failure before him, in fun or earnest, he will go the rest of the way toward a nervous breakdown."

"But, doctor, he's a poor fellow."

Judge gripped Eve's hand tight and said in a low voice. "But they won't starve, will they, Eve?" She wondered, appalled, how much of this sort of thing the child had supposed real before this.

"Why, darling, Marilyn was just

Irregular Trend At Closing Trade On Share Market

Some Specialties Gain but Both Sides Lack Vigor

Compiled by the Associated Press
Business news, on the whole, was comforting, although here and there were signs the industrial picture was clouding in spots.
Rails pushed up briskly at the start, with Santa Fe hitting a new top and one block of 12,000 shares of N. Y. Central coming out at a fractional advance. These, with other carriers, were pushed and pulled at intervals. Farm implements also had their innings, along with mail orders.
Activity was a bit more pronounced than yesterday, but dealings were still relatively slow. Transfers were around 850,000 shares.

New York—(P)—Leading stocks encountered recovery difficulties in today's market and closing price trends were indefinite.
A few specialties advanced sharply on comparatively small turnovers and resistance was displayed by others, but vigor was lacking in either direction.

Light Receipts at Chicago Yards Responsible For Upturns

Chicago—(P)—The strength exhibited in livestock markets today was attributed to a continuation of light marketings and reports of some improvement in the movement of wholesale meat.
Hogs advanced as much as 10 cents in some cases while fat lambs rose 25 cents.
Most cattle showed little change in price, the bulk consisting of medium to good heaves with a little weight, which moved at $8.50 to $11.50.

Corn Rallies to New High Ground but Fails to Hold Gains

Chicago—(P)—Except for a temporary flight of May corn to a new high price record, $1.35, grain values suffered material losses today, wheat 24 cents maximum.
A total of 350,000 bushels of wheat went into store here today, presumably for May delivery purposes. Uncompleted May wheat contracts here are approximately 19,500,000 bushels.
At the close, wheat was 1 cent to 2 1/2 under yesterday's finish. May 1.26-1.27, July 1.17-1.18, corn 14 off to 1 up. May 1.33, July 1.34-1.35, oats varying from 1 cent decline to 1/2 advance.

Federal Inquiry Is Launched Into Zeppelin Tragedy

In a rain storm, more than 12 hours late because of headwinds which cut down speed over the Atlantic. Unhurriedly, despite a planned quick turn-around with a record list of passengers, many of them bound for the English coronation, the ship nosed up toward the mooring mast.

Two lines went down at 6:20 p. m. passengers, spotting relatives and greeters on the field 200 feet below, went gaily.

Three minutes later—explosion. The stories of the tragedy were all the same.

"A blinding flash," said Herbert O'Laughlin of Chicago, a survivor. "A noise that sounded like bullets coming out of the gondolas," said Robert Seelig, a photographer on the ground. "I saw the ship sink down and the flames go through it."

The disaster, writing a fiery finis to the Hindenburg's 135,000 miles of safe transit across the Atlantic, was the first major wreck to involve a lighter-than-air ship carrying paying passengers.

All other crashes, in the 78 years since Count Zeppelin began the use of dirigibles, involved military or naval craft.

Today and Tomorrow

BY WALTER LIPPMAN

Dunning's Resolution

In 1780, during the revolt of the American colonists, there was laid before the House of Commons, sitting as committee of the whole, a resolution which summed up in the fewest possible words the great issue of that day. The resolution said:

That it is necessary to declare that the influence of the Crown has increased, is increasing, and ought to be diminished.

Lippman

The resolution was introduced by Joseph Dunning in support of a petition from the people of York protesting against the excessive expenditures and the arbitrary government of King George III. Though Lord North, the King's Minister, opposed Dunning's resolution, William Pitt and Charles James Fox favored it, and by a vote of 233 against 215 the House of Commons passed the resolution.

The resolution must always be interesting to Americans because it reflected the sentiment in England which made it impossible for George III to use all his powers to crush the rebellion. But it has a particular interest at this time because of the argument which Dunning used to Parliament in upholding the York petition against excessive expenditures.

Resolution Always is Interesting to Americans

Independent of the great objects which the petition recommended to the care and attention of Parliament there was one great fundamental point on which they hinged, that of setting limits or paring down the increased, dangerous and alarming influence of the Crown, and an economical expenditure of the public money. In one point of view, both these objects might be fairly consolidated into one great principle. For instance, if the public money was faithfully applied, and frugally expended, that would release the influence of the Crown; if, on the other hand, the influence of the Crown was restrained within its natural and constitutional limits, it would once more restore that power which the constitution had vested in the House, the enquiring into and controlling the expenditure of public money.

This passage is worth reading not once, but many times. For though the words are a bit old-fashioned to our ears, they are packed full with the lesson learned by Englishmen over many centuries of struggle to achieve their constitutional liberties.

Saw Need for Parliament To Control Expenditures

Dunning saw, and a majority of the house of commons agreed with him, that in order to set limits upon and to pare down "the increased, dangerous and alarming influence" of the executive, it was necessary for Parliament to regain its control over the expenditure of public money. He pointed out that because the legislature had given the executive a blank check for spending, the arbitrary power of the executive had increased; that if the legislature insisted upon economy, it would not only save money, but would also restrain the influence of the executive within "its natural and constitutional limits."

The issue which Dunning raised is the paramount issue in Washington today. Once again, after a century and a half of constitutional government, we have an executive whose personal power is greater than any that was ever conceived ly by compelling congress to ratify what he proposes. Personally, he wishes to fix and control public expenditures. Personally, he wishes to fix the powers of all government departments. Personally, he wishes to rule the administrative and quasi-judicial commissions. Personally, he wishes to dominate the courts and to interpret the constitution.

No doubt it is all very amiable and well meaning and is sincerely intended to make life better for the people. But it is personal government, beyond anything contemplated in our constitution or in any other constitution of a free people, and it can lead only, like all other personal government in the past, from arbitrariness through confusion to tyranny. So close are we to this development of personal government that as yet we barely see the forest for the trees. But if we look at it as a whole we must be startled at the extent to which the restraints of free government are being destroyed, and before it is too late, before Mr. Roosevelt has landed us amiably in a confusion which only a ruthless hand can cure, we shall have to proclaim, like Joseph Dunning, that his power has increased, is increasing, and ought to be diminished.

Dr. Scholl's Zino-pads

It is gradually becoming clear that the powers we entrusted to Mr. Roosevelt to meet the crisis of 1933 are not to be restored, on the contrary that they are to be used to increase the personal power of the president, and to perpetuate it. It is by means of these powers, now being employed shamelessly to browbeat congress, that he proposes to obtain the authority to pack the supreme court and to dominate the lower federal courts. But that is only a part of a vast program of personal government.

There is another bill in congress, one of the reorganization of the government, which has many attractive features, but contains also the most extraordinary proposal for the extension of personal government which has ever been seriously proposed in this country. If it were put into effect, almost every interest which is now subject to public regulation would be regulated by appointees beholden to the president, and heaven help it if it tried to take an appeal to the courts from their decisions.

Intoxication of Personal Power Has Gone to His Head
The plain fact of the matter is that the intoxication of personal power has gone to Mr. Roosevelt's head. He has come to think that the sole function of congress is to supply him with the means of power and of the courts to justify his use of power. Personally, he wishes to make the laws, either openly and boldly as in the NRA or indirectly.

in for a drink of water and directions to Cornwall. And he says he has a job for Peter in Hollywood, quite almost sure. So we said as he was driving there tomorrow couldn't he drive us along? And he said sure if we paid our share of the oil and gas; it was lunch time anyway, so he waited while Peter packed and I got a grand luncheon. I knew when it meant all this you wouldn't mind hideous depredations on the evening meal. Jimmy says we may get taken aboard a world tour in the fall if Pete will do posters, and he's actually going to. I'm terribly sorry about having to take "the Blessed Dividends" but we'll send it back from Hollywood first thing and gas and oil can't wait, but I know my darling Eve will. Kiss my dear baby for me a hundred times and tell him we'll miss him terribly but there wasn't any more room in the car. With a thousand thanks to you, Eve sweet, for being as good as you will be to my little abandoned lamb, and for taking in us useless but loving bums, your own always devoted Marilyn.

"What does she say?" Judge asked nervously.

Eve appalled, nevertheless remembered the doctor's words, "No shock, no strain—"

"They've had to go to Hollywood suddenly, Judge."

"Did they leave the money for our board?" (Oh, fatally responsible Judge, he would ask that!)

"They had to have it, dear, to pay their way out."

Judge turned his back. His thin shoulders heaved in the pathetic little new coat. With a final effort at control, he faced her again and said desperately, "Well, what are you going to do with me? Throw me out?"

Over his head Denny, his face darkening, waited for her answer.

Eve dropped to her knees there in the wide hall and caught Judge in her arms. "Why, you little idiot, of course not."

"There, stop it, Judge," Denny said as the child broke into sobbing, and tried to take him from Eve. But he clung the tighter and sobbed the more, until Uncle Henry came in from the portico.

He said in his slow fatherly way, "Now, son, you better wipe your eyes and come feed the little pig. he's hungry. You can tell me all about it there. You know I sort of depend on you about that pig."

After a final gulp, Judge got hold of himself and followed the old man out.

Eve insists on keeping Judge, so Denny deserts tomorrow.

Asks Ruling of Attorney General

Winnebago County Assemblyman Seeks Information on Refunds

(Post-Crescent Madison Bureau)

Madison—Is a city empowered to refund or provide for refunding to property owners benefits and damages assessed against property for the cost of laying water mains without express statutory authority?

That is the question submitted to the state's legal department Wednesday as the result of a resolution by Assemblyman Leo T. Niemuth of Winnebago county and adopted by the state assembly.

Niemuth said he had prepared a bill giving the cities of Wisconsin such authority, but if Attorney General O. S. Loomis rules that such authority is in the hands of city authorities now, he will withdraw the measure.

Assemblyman Niemuth said that "discrimination has been made against certain property owners in some cities (Oshkosh) by action of local governing bodies requiring in some instances the cost of laying water mains to be assessed against property fronting thereon and in other instances to be paid by the municipal water utility."

The resolution specified that Loomis should make his opinion immediately. Niemuth is a member of the Oshkosh city council when he is not busy with lawmaking in Madison.
